March 30, 1999

Dear honored guests:

Welcome to our City and the "Land of Enchantment." Albuquerque is proud to welcome the National Women’s Studies Association. We are grateful to the advances that the many pioneers in your field have made towards the advancement of Women’s Studies in recent years. The City of Albuquerque is both pleased and honored to host an organization of your academic and social caliber. We wish you a wonderful and productive stay and invite you to visit again.

For those of you from out of town, I encourage you to take advantage of the opportunity to explore our art, historical, cultural, and natural attractions. The Albuquerque Museum and other art galleries around town will provide you with a window into Albuquerque’s vibrant art community, as well as into our cross-cultural heritage. Downtown, Old Town and Uptown offer a myriad of possibilities which reflect both the unique heritage and the dynamic style of Albuquerque. Finally, the Tramway, perched on top of Sandia Crest, provides a breathtaking view of our City, both during the day and at night.

Albuquerque is a mixture of Southwestern charm, Old World grandeur, American West pioneer spirit, and modern ingenuity. Albuquerque's diversity and multi-cultural heritage will captivate you. You will enjoy the crimson sunsets on the Sandia Mountains, the majestic volcanos to the West, and the life-giving Rio Grande, lined by majestic cottonwoods. I trust you will find the natural beauty and enchantment of Albuquerque, as well as the multitude of cultural attractions, the ideal setting for your conference. Best wishes for a happy stay and a successful conference.

Sincerely,

Jim Baca

THE CITY OF ALBUQUERQUE IS AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY/REASONABLE ACCOMMODATION EMPLOYER
Dear Conference Participants,

Welcome to the 1999 NWSA Conference, the twentieth we have held since the founding meeting in 1977. Although I was not at the founding conference, I have been “doing” Women’s Studies for the past 30 years, first as a graduate student and then as a faculty member. I remember the debates we had during the early years: Should Women’s Studies be a program or a department? Should we focus on developing independent programs or on transforming the curriculum? Would there always be a need for Women’s Studies or would it, like the state, wither away after the revolution? These “either-or” debates seem almost quaint now, as we recognize the need to pursue our work at all levels, in all ways, and for all times. We also know there are new and urgent questions to be debated: What do we mean by terms like “discipline” and “interdisciplinary”? How can/should Women’s Studies relate to fields like gender studies and sexuality studies? How can Women’s Studies become truly diverse, both global and multicultural? How can we survive the restructuring of universities in response to political and corporate pressures? NWSA—through its publications, its conferences, and its policies and programs—can and must be, first and foremost, the place where these questions are addressed and answers produced.

This year is the first time we have held a large-scale conference with a full range of programs and activities in a hotel. In order to do so, and to keep the conference accessible to students, adjuncts, and community activists, we have made a number of changes. Most obvious is that the conference has been reduced from four days to three, but with very little loss in content. The compromise is that there are more severe choices required than ever before. We have kept about the same number of sessions as last year—and the Program Committee was still required to reject many worthy submissions—in a shorter span of time. So we are starting earlier, ending later, and skipping lunch breaks. We also have had to use three hotels to provide enough meeting rooms, and even with shuttle service, time between sessions will be very tight. We have had to put the regional meetings at breakfast and the Constituency Council and Membership Assembly in competition with sessions. So we will all be called upon to make even more choices this year than in the past. But, of course, that is part of what feminism historically has been about—giving women the right and responsibility to make their own choices.

I hope you will be patient with the inevitable challenges offered by a hotel conference, even as you enjoy the comforts and amenities (will anyone really miss dorm rooms?). The GC is especially interested in your comments on this year’s conference, as we consider whether to pursue hotel conferences in the future. But mostly, I hope you will find the 1999 NWSA Conference a rich environment in which to discuss the intellectual, political, and pedagogical issues that we in Women’s Studies must grapple with as we bring 30 years of history to a close, and open up an undefined future.

President, 1998-99
Saturday, June 19
7:00 Doris Fields
8:00 Judy Grahn
9:00 Alix Kates Shulman

Doris Fields conducts creative and technical writing workshops throughout New Mexico, has read her poetry in the U.S. and in the Caribbean, is a recent inductee into live poets’ society, an eclectic collection of fine Northern New Mexico poets, and just completed her second manuscript of poetry. She has taught a course, Her Own Voice: Black Women Writers, for the past twelve years at the University of New Mexico. Doris is a founding mother of US ’N R Art: Women Artists of African Descent, an art exhibition held in Albuquerque annually, and recently held an 18-year veteran public health worker with the New Mexico Department of Health.

Judy Grahn co-founded lesbian-feminism and holds a Lifetime Achievement in Lesbian Letters award. She is internationally recognized as a poet and cultural theorist, and is a Ph.D. candidate in integral studies, concentrating on a new origin story, that menstruation created human culture. She teaches Women's Spirituality at New College of California in San Francisco. She may be found online at www.Serpentina.com.

Alix Kates Shulman has written eleven books. Her pioneering feminist novel, Memoirs of an Ex-Prom Queen, was reissued by Penguin in a 25th anniversary edition in 1997. Her 1995 memoir, Drinking the Rainbow, won a Body Mind Spirit Award and was a finalist for a Los Angeles Times Book Prize. Her stories and essays have appeared in The Atlantic, The Nation, Ms., Women’s Review of Books, Dissent, and The New York Times. She has received arts awards from the Rockefeller Foundation (Bellagio), the NEA, the American Academy in Rome, and the Lila Wallace/Readers Digest Foundation. She has taught at universities throughout the country, including New York, Yale, Hawaii, Colorado, and Southern Maine. Her new memoir, A Good Enough Daughter, has just been published.

7:00 Valerie Martinez
8:00 Virginia Scharff
9:00 Laura Araujo-Salinas

Valerie Martinez’s recent book of poems, Absence, Luminous, is the winner of the Larry Levis Prize (Four Way Books, 1999). According to Jean Valentine, judge for the national competition, “Valerie Martinez has written an extraordinary book: these poems are expansive, surprising, intelligent; her subjects are as alive as her language...moving, mysterious, passionate, and written for the sake of something larger than ourselves.” Martinez's poems have appeared in many journals and magazines including The Best American Poetry, 1996, Parnassus, Prairie Schooner, and Touching the Fire: Fifteen Poets of Today's Latino Renaissance. She is currently on the English faculty at New Mexico Highlands University.

When Laura Araujo-Salinas was in fourth grade her best friend asked her what she wanted to do when she grew up. Looking up from her 50/50 orange flavored ice cream bar, she said, “I want to be a writer.” Seventeen years later, she has begun to put in writing the stories shared by familia, conversations overheard here and there of the struggles in life she has faced as a Chicana lesbian and immigrant. She has published in Voices: A Journal of Chicana/Latina Studies and Conceptions Southwest. Her stories emerge in the language they choose, whether in English, Spanish or a combination of both.

Virginia Scharff is Associate Professor of History at the University of New Mexico. Her first novel, Brown-Eyed Girl, will be published by HarperCollins in the spring of 2000.
NWSA accomplishes its work through the efforts of member volunteers, with the able paid support of an executive administrator and her part-time staff in the national office, and a half-time Conference Coordinator who manages the conference program database, the website and other work associated with the conferences. Responsibility for projects, including programming for the national conference falls to elected officers and governing council members, committee chairs and members, and other volunteers from various constituencies within NWSA. What this means is that NWSA is all of us, and we need people to volunteer— for committee membership, to strengthen regional associations, to join and energize sub-groups within NWSA. In addition, we would like for more members to run for office, to encourage their programs and departments to pay for an institutional membership in NWSA, and to give consideration to hosting the national conference.

The Governing Council and NWSA's Mission

The officers and members of the Governing Council welcome suggestions, financial support, constructive criticism, and offers to help with the work of the association. The volunteers who make NWSA possible are committed, in the works of the Constitution ratified in the spring of 1999, “to further the social, political, and professional development of Women's Studies throughout the country and the world, at every educational level and in every educational setting.” This is a large and even global mission, and it only becomes a reality when members volunteer for service in NWSA. The Constitution continues, “To this end, this organization is committed to being a forum conducive to dialogue and collective action dedicated to feminist education and change.” NWSA members from different identity groups and disciplinary backgrounds work in coalition with each other in order to ensure a future for Women's Studies both in the academy and in the community.

Regional Women's Studies Associations

Regional women's studies associations exist to strengthen networks among the approximately 900 women's studies programs, departments, women's centers and their affiliated community organizations. At the regional sessions you will nominate your regional representative who goes to the Constituency Council and also have an opportunity to network with neighboring region colleagues, students and activists. If you have further questions please contact Annette Van Dyke, University of Illinois - Springfield, Springfield, IL 62794-9243. <vandyke.annette@uis.edu> If you do not know the region to which you belong, see the list that follows this section. Regional breakfast meetings will be held Saturday morning, 7:30 - 8:30 in Delfinos and the indoor pool area at the Radisson. Signs will help you locate your region.

Caucuses, Task Forces, and Interest Area Groups

Caucuses have a long history in NWSA, beginning with the founding conference in 1977; they reflect the desire of some NWSA members to affiliate in sub-groups which reflect our diversity of identities. According to the 199 X revised Constitution and Bylaws, CAUCUSES designate groups that are under-represented within society or NWSA as an organization. TASK FORCES are oriented towards an issue or problem that can be solved through action. INTEREST AREA GROUPS are oriented toward those who wish to meet around a common scholarly interest. NWSA has acted from the beginning on the belief that members whose identities, voices, and points of view may be numerically under-represented within NWSA might not find an organizational base or be able to make themselves heard without caucus representation. Task Forces however, do not require representation within the governance structure, and can accomplish their projects without its intervention. INTEREST AREA GROUPS - a new addition to NWSA’s structure—accomplish their goals primarily through the development of regular conference programming. Currently active caucuses and task forces, and any group that specifically asked for time to discuss formalizing a caucus or task force, have scheduled meetings at this conference. If your group does not already have a time and place, and wishes to have a meeting, contact the NWSA registration table, and we will try to accommodate your request.

Governance Structure: Governing Council, Constituency Council, and the Membership Assembly

The Governing Council (GC) is comprised of the elected officers, 3 elected Members-at-Large, 5 elected Representatives by/from the Constituency Council (including the Chairs of the Women of Color and Lesbian Caucuses), and Chairs of the Standing Committees. The GC meets twice a year (in January, before and after the conference) to establish policy for NWSA; between GC meetings, the Executive Committee (comprised of the elected officers and Conference Chair) is authorized to make decisions on behalf of the GC and NWSA.

The Constituency Council (CC) is comprised of the elected representatives of the caucuses and regions. It is chaired by the NWSA President Elect, Annette Van Dyke. The CC elects three members of its body to the GC at a meeting that takes place after all contributing groups have met.

The Membership Assembly (MA) meets annually at the conference to hear reports from the officers and other members of the GC, to vote on any constitutional amendments that have been proposed and duly circulated, and to consider approving recommendations and resolutions from the membership or from regions, caucuses, or task forces directed to the Governing Council. Members of record 60 days prior to the meeting may participate in, and vote at, the meeting.

The Constituency Council meeting will be Saturday at 4:00 in Delfinos (Radisson); the Membership Assembly will follow at 5:00 also in Delfinos.

How to Submit Recommendations and Resolutions at the Membership Assembly

Recommendations and resolutions, if approved by the Membership Assembly, are addressed to the Governing Council for further endorsement or implementation; the GC takes up recommendations and resolutions at its meeting immediately following the close of the conference, June 14.

-A recommendation is an expression of concern or principle; it does not require action on the part of NWSA, although it may recommend writing a letter, sending a telegram, or making a similar educational gesture, endorsing the substance of the recommendation.

-A resolution urges the Governing Council to develop and/or implement policies, procedures, or plans of action; a resolution involves a commitment of the Association's resources, either in money or in time of the officers of the organization. Sponsors of recommendations and resolutions should consider and include in the proposal the following categories as appropriate: cost (and source of funding); responsibility for implementation (and to what extent the sponsors are willing to do the work); timetable (and who is responsible for meeting deadlines); and specifics (names, addresses, e-mail, phone numbers, etc.). RECOMMENDATION/RESOLUTION FORMS are available at the Conference Registration Desk throughout the conference. Completed forms must be returned to the registration desk by Friday, June 18 at 4:00pm.
Membership Information

Membership in NWSA is open to anyone interested in promoting Women's Studies education in the community, schools, colleges and universities. Membership dues range from $25 for student, adjunct and activist members to $95 for individual membership to $1200 for a life membership. Institutional memberships range from $70 to $200 to $800 for a five-year membership.

NOTE: NWSA is a 501 (c)3 organization as classified by the IRS. This means that in order to keep our status as a tax-exempt, non-profit organization, we are prohibited as an organization from engaging in political activities. While it is far from certain that NWSA members and the IRS would agree on the meaning of the phrase “political activity,” NWSA must restrict its external advocacy or actions to those that clearly fall within the rubric of our educational mission. Although NWSA itself may be prohibited from engaging in political activity, this does not restrict the speech or action of NWSA's membership. Persons or groups wishing to enlist the advocacy of NWSA's membership may circulate petitions at the conference and/or may purchase mailing labels from the national office in order to communicate directly with members. Persons or groups outside of NWSA may not solicit conference attendees for financial support.

Art Exhibit
She Makes the Picture: Inside and Around the Family -- The PAGE COLEMAN GALLERY, June 17 - July 17, 1999. Opening Reception is Saturday June 19, 1999 7:00 - 9:00 pm. Transportation will be provided from the conference site to the gallery, only a 5 minute ride away. Sponsored by Feminist Mothers and Their Allies

Ceremonies and Celebrations
The Jewish Caucus is issuing a special invitation to all women, Jewish and non-Jewish, to attend Shabbat, Friday, 6:00-7:30, in the Fiesta Room at the Radisson. Leading it will be Rabbi Lynn Gottlieb of Albuquerque, who is known for her lively, creative, multicultural, story-telling focus.

On Saturday, 6:00-7:00, the Spirituality Task Force will sponsor a Summer Solstice Ritual in the patio by the outside pool area at the Radisson.

Dances
Two dances will be held this year, both in Delfinos at the Radisson. Friday night, the Women of Color Caucus and the Lesbian Caucus will sponsor a fundraiser with the band, Goddess of Arno: tickets are $10 at the NWSA table in the book exhibit. Saturday night is the official NWSA dance, with local Albuquerque DJ Glenda Lewis.
Film Series
Films will be shown in the Emporium Room at the Radisson. A schedule, description of films, and list of film distributors are included in this book.

NEH Workshop
Jane Aiken, Program Officer for Faculty Fellowships at the national Endowment for the Humanities, will conduct a pre-conference workshop, "Writing Winning Grant Proposals," on how NEH can fund feminist research and how to write successful grant proposals.

Press and Media Representatives
Members of the press and media representatives with appropriate identification should come to the Conference Registration Desk to receive a press pass and information concerning how to contact officers, conference speakers, and NWSA representatives.

Reminder to Participants and Presenters
Conference attendees are requested to refrain from wearing scented products that may trigger reactions in chemically-sensitive persons. NWSA requests that presenters provide large print copies of their presentation material and/or visual to assure access to all participants.

Smoking
While smoking is permitted in designated individual hotel rooms, it is not permitted in any public spaces except the bar at the Radisson.

Special Ribbons
Members of the Governing Council will be wearing red ribbons attached to their nametags; conference volunteers will be wearing green ribbons. If you need assistance or directions, please look for someone wearing a green or red ribbon. Plenary speakers will be wearing white ribbons, and NWSA life members will be wearing gold ribbons.

Writers' Series
On Friday and Saturday evenings, readings by well-known regional and national writers will be held in the Cavalier Room at the Radisson. These events are open to all conference registrants at no additional charge. See the section in this book for detailed information.
General Conference Information

HOTELS
The Albuquerque Radisson Hotel and Conference Center (2500 Carlisle NE, 505-888-3311) is the main site for the 1999 NWSA conference. Registration, the opening event, plenaries, book exhibit, and most sessions will take place at the Radisson. Some sessions also will take place at the Sumner Suites (2500 Menaul Blvd. NE, 505-881-0544) and the Holiday Inn (2020 Menaul Blvd., NE, 505-884-2511). Both hotels are located near the Radisson.

TRANSPORTATION
Continuous transportation between the Radisson, Sumner Suites, and Holiday Inn is provided by Herrera Coaches according to the following schedule: Thursday, 3:00 pm to 11:00 pm, Friday and Saturday, 7:30 am to 11:00 pm, and Sunday, 7:30 am to 1:00 pm. The Radisson, Sumner Suites, and Holiday Inn hotels provide airport transportation. Please make your arrangements directly with the hotel. For other transportation needs, taxis are available and relatively inexpensive. For service, call Albuquerque Cab Company, 883-4888 or Yellow Cab, 243-7777.

ALBUQUERQUE INFORMATION
Representatives from the Albuquerque Convention and Visitors Bureau will be at the Radisson on Thursday from 2:00 pm to 5:00 pm and Friday from 9:00 am to 5:00 pm to answer your questions and to provide information about local attractions. Look for their information table in the Conference Registration area.

RESTAURANTS
The Radisson and Holiday Inn offer full service dining. A number of fast food and moderate cost restaurants are located within walking distance of all three hotels. Historic Old Town is located about 10 minutes by car from the Radisson and offers over 100 shops, art galleries, and a broad choice of restaurants, many featuring Southwestern food. Restaurant information is available at the Albuquerque Convention and Tourism Bureau table in the conference registration area at the Radisson.

FITNESS
The Radisson, Sumner Suites, and Holiday Inn all have swimming pools and fitness equipment for use by hotel guests at no charge.

PHOTOCOPYING
You can photocopy at Office Max, located diagonally across from the Radisson in the American Square Shopping Center at 3301 Menaul Blvd. Hours are: Monday-Friday, 7:00 am to 9:00 pm, Saturday, 8:00 am to 9:00 pm, Sunday, 10:00 am to 8:00 pm.

BOOK EXHIBIT
The Book Exhibit, including displays by publishers, organizations, and crafts people, is located in the Grand Ballroom of the Radisson. Book Exhibit hours are: Thursday, 4:00 pm to 7:00 pm and Friday and Saturday, 9:00 am to 7:00 pm.

NWSA SALE ITEMS
Stop by the NWSA table in the Book Exhibit. This year, in addition to wonderful conference T-shirts, we have added baseball caps and children's shirts. All conference items were designed and produced by WOMANMADE PRODUCTS in Seneca Falls, NY.

CHILDCARE
Childcare is provided by Southwest Child Care (2626 Texas NE, 505-293-2626) and must be prearranged.

DISABILITY
NWSA is committed to providing reasonable accommodations for all conference participants who need assistance. All conference hotels are wheelchair accessible. If you have contacted NWSA prior to the conference to arrange assistance, please identify yourself to someone at the Conference Registration Desk at the Radisson. Persons with disabilities seeking accommodations while at the conference but who have not previously arranged for assistance also should identify their needs at the Conference Registration Desk. Every effort will be made to provide a reasonable accommodation.
TOURS AND BALLOONS
HOT AIR BALLOON RIDES are being offered through World Balloon Corporation, New Mexico's oldest hot air balloon company. Flight date is Saturday, June 19th with Sunday as the back-up weather date. World Balloon will pick up ticketed passengers at the Radisson, Sumner Suites, and Holiday Inn at 7:00 am. There will be two flight shifts of 30 minutes each and the entire activity will take 3-4 hours. On your ride, dress in layers — shorts, dresses and sandals are not recommended. You must be in good health, not pregnant, and able to stand for over an hour without assistance. If higher winds exist at landing, the balloon may tip or drag or even bump and bounce along. If you have any health concerns, please consult a physician. Cost is $88.89 and includes transportation, balloon ride, champagne toast, balloon pins, and flight certificates. Tickets must be purchased in advance. Check with the Conference Registration Desk for availability of space.

Tours of Acoma Pueblo and Santa Fe are being offered through Tour New Mexico. Through privileges granted by the Acoma Tribal Council Administration, visitors are able to tour the Acoma Pueblo, a National Historic Landmark. The Acoma have inhabited this mesa top since before the twelfth century, making it the oldest continuously inhabited city in the U.S. The Acoma, a matrilineal group, are known for their beautiful and distinctive pottery made primarily by women. Wear comfortable walking shoes, the mesa top is uneven rock and sand. Bring a hat, water bottle, and light jacket. Photography is limited; camera permits are $10, no video. Acoma tour dates are Thursday, June 17th, 11:00 am to 4:00 pm and Sunday, June 20th, 1:00 pm to 6:00 pm. Pick-up for the tours will be at the Radisson. Tour tickets must be purchased in advance and are $40 with a sack lunch, $34 no lunch. Check with the Conference Registration Desk for availability of space.

The tour of Santa Fe includes a drive along the Turquoise Trail through old ghost towns and mining towns, an orientation drive around Santa Fe revealing its distinctive architecture and the majestic Sangre de Cristo Mountains, a guided walking tour of the historic plaza area, and a visit to the Georgia O'Keeffe Museum with free time for lunch, shopping and browsing. Santa Fe tour date is Monday, June 21st, 9:00 am to 5:00 pm. Tour tickets are $38 and must be purchased in advance. Check with the Conference Registration Desk for availability of space. Tour pick up will be at the Radisson. Please note that the Georgia O'Keeffe Museum is closed on Mondays and will be open to NWSA tour visitors only.

Adelante Mujeres!

History of Mexican-American/Chicana women. This documentary pays tribute to the strength and resilience of women at the center of their families, as activists in their communities and as contributors to American history. National Women's History Project. 30 min. 1992.

Barbie Nation: An Unauthorized Tour

The cult of the Barbie doll, telling the Barbie stories of men, women and children. At the center of Barbie Nation is the story of Barbie creator and Mattel co-founder Ruth Handler. Handler's ironic rise and fall brings Barbie Nation to a climax that is about the creation of femininity and the marketing—and subversion—of femininity's icon. Susan Stern. 53 min. 1998.

Battle for the Minds

Religion, politics and sociology collide in this award winning, critically acclaimed film. With shocking honesty, this film documents the rise of fundamentalism in America's largest Protestant denomination and the subsequent impact of that rise on women. Fundamentalist assaults on women in leadership roles serve as a microcosm for the alarming outbreak of intolerant religious right in America today. Steven Lipscomb. 52 min. 1997.

Building Futures: Rebuilding Our Lives

Twelve women on welfare, in British Columbia, dare to call themselves carpenters and turn a ramshackle rooming house into an emergency shelter for their sisters on the street. Built by women, for women. It changed lives. This film examines the four phases of this feminist-inspired community development project: community process, partnerships, life skills/training and construction. Sher Morgan. 29 min. 1996.
Carmen Miranda: Bananas is My Business
Charting Miranda's transformation from famed Brazilian singer to Hollywood's first Latina star to independent artist, this film shows how Miranda's saga exemplifies contradictions in the relationship between Latin America and the United States that persist today. Considered "too Latin" for Hollywood and "Americanized" in Brazil, this underrated performer paid a huge personal price for her success. At the convergence of sexual politics, cultural colonialism, and one woman's life, this moving film powerfully explores the complex factors behind the image and life of the "Tutti-Frutti Woman," Carmen Miranda.

Helen Solberg and David Meyer. 92 min. 1995.

Women Make Movies Fri. 9:05 p.m.

Dear Dr. Spencer: Abortion in a Small Town
From the early 1920s until his death in 1969, Dr. Robert Douglas Spencer practiced medicine in a small town in Pennsylvania. In addition to providing basic medical care, Dr. Spencer also performed illegal abortions. This film features interviews with the doctor's wife, townspeople and women who traveled from all over the United States seeking his help. Their memories of Dr. Spencer elicit a wide range of emotions—relief, support, profound gratitude, and always admiration—for a man who saved thousands of women from back alley abortions.

Danielle Renfrew and Beth Seltzer. 26 min. 1998.

First Run/Icarus Films Fri. 9:05 a.m.

Facing Violence Today/Fewer Victims Tomorrow: An Impact Panel
Formerly battered women now in prison address support programs for victims of domestic violence, complexities of coping and the aftermath, and issues of dating violence. Taped excerpts include insights and recommendations. Nancy L. Norvell, Ed. D.

Nancy Norvell Sat. 10:35 a.m.

Falling into Grace
Exploration of the ways in which martial arts affects the identities and ambitions of its young practitioners. Drawing from interviews with students and instructors, Newman hopes to draw young women into the discipline in order to counter the drop in self-esteem and increase in body problems that many young women face in early adolescence.

Louise Newman. 22 min. 1999.

Louise Newman Fri. 2:00 p.m.
Home is Struggle
Lives of women who have come to the United States from different Latin American countries for very different reasons, economic and political. In sharing stories about their pasts and present and their views on issues such as sexism and personal and political repression, this film presents an absorbing picture of the construction of 'Latina' identity and the immigrant experience. Marta Bautis. 37 min. 1991.
Women Make Movies Fri. 10:40 a.m.

Jodie: An Icon
Fast paced, breezy look at the transatlantic phenomenon that has made Hollywood actress Jodie Foster an icon for lesbians who identify with, adore and celebrate the screen personas of her remarkable career. Fans and queer cultural critics share their favorite 'iconic' moments giving illuminating lesbian readings of Foster's key films which trace the charismatic actor's progression from early tomboy parts as a child star to mature performances depicting active, strong willed women with attitude. The film captures the Jodie Foster look alike contest in San Francisco and a visually slick montage of views on Foster's butch femme indeterminacy all help to confirm Foster's status as a dyke icon. Pratibha Parmar. 24 min. 1996.
Women Make Movies Fri. 5:35 p.m.

The Ladies of the Lake
Stunning film that takes us to a rare matriarchal community in southwest China. The ancient Mosuo culture has survived both the time of the concubines and the Cultural Revolution, although it is now being threatened with extinction by Beijing family planning policies and by absorption in the mainstream of the Chinese majority. This film may be the only reminder of a disappearing society. 20 min. 1998.
Filmakers Library Fri. 5:10 p.m.

Modern Heroes, Modern Slaves
Depiction of the human and sometimes tragic side of the Philippine organized labor trade; failed marriages, family breakups, and exploitation and abuse at the hands of unscrupulous employers. In regards to human rights violations, the government is reluctant to pressure foreign governments for fear of losing revenue. This leaves millions of women migrant workers vulnerable to exploitation. Marie Boti. 45 min. 1997.
Filmakers Library Sat. 6:25 p.m.

My Name is Kahentiosta
How the work of one courageous Kahnawake Mohawk woman to defend her tribal lands mirrors the continuing struggle of Quebec's Native peoples for justice. Addressing the irony of colonizing settlers renaming claimed lands while refusing to recognize aboriginal people's names, this film is a compelling look at a people's movement for self-determination and one women's refusal to capitulate in the face of great adversity. Alanis Obomsawin. 30 min. 1995.
Women Make Movies Sat. 5:50 p.m.

My Second Life: East German Women in a Changed World
Introduction to a broad spectrum of working age women, who comment on the perks and problems of life before and after the fall of the Berlin Wall. The program ends on an optimistic note, observing that while life is now more stressful, in many ways it is also more colorful and interesting. Simone Shoemaker. 53 min. 1996.
Bronco Video Sat. 8:30 a.m.

Nappy
Interviews, documentary footage, and candid pictures combine to tell the stories of fourteen diverse African-American women who have chosen to stop straightening their hair and “go natural.” While women describe their natural hairstyles as symbols of self-determination in a racist beauty culture, Nappy combines analysis and archival images to place the rise of natural do's within the context of social changes wrought by the Civil Rights and Black Liberation Movements. Lydia Ann Douglas. 24 min. 1997.
Women Make Movies Sat. 10:05 a.m.

Pride Divide
Ground breaking exploration of the gender gap between gays and lesbians. Politically united against global homophobia, they are poles apart on many life issues and values. The gay and lesbian community is not immune to gender conditioning and reflects many of the traditional conflicts inherent to straight relationships. This film looks at the issues around male domination versus female submission; promiscuousness versus commitment; exaltation of the body versus the spirit; AIDS versus breast cancer support. This lively film will rouse discussion in all contexts concerned with gender studies. Karen Kiss and Pans Poirer. 57 min. 1997.
Filmakers Library Sat. 9:20 p.m.
FILM SERIES

The Righteous Babes

Acclaimed filmmaker Pratibha Parmar explores the intersection of feminism with popular music, focusing on the role female recording artists in the 1990s and their influence on modern women. Parmar argues that, far from being dead, feminism has thrived and expanded its reach through the direct, aggressive, and revolutionary medium of rock music, and through the role models of performers like Madonna and Ani DiFranco. Parmar interviews Sinead O'Connor, Skin, Chrissie Hynde, Tori Amos, Ani DiFranco, Camille Paglia and Gloria Steinem. This powerful and timely documentary demonstrates the vibrancy and relevance of feminism to women and young girls today. Pratibha Parmar. 50 min. 1998.

Ringl and Pit

The lives and times of photographers Grete Stern and Ellen Auerbach—from their early days together at the “ringl + pit” studio in Germany to their current activities across three continents. Maintaining their friendship over the years and miles, Grete and Ellen now share the gratifying circumstance of their belated fame and continuing contributions as older women and artists. Juan Mandelbaum. 59 min. 1995.
First Run/Icarus Films Sat. 7:15 p.m.

Sambal Belacan in San Francisco

Fragrant chili and shrimp paste, “sambal belacan”, is a staple of Singaporean cooking. Representing the cultural mingling of many ethnic groups, it serves as a central metaphor for the experiences of expatriate Singaporean lesbians in this creative examination of identity and belonging. In intimate interviews, three women who emigrated to live openly as lesbians share their feelings of exclusion both from their families and culture of origin and the United States. This film raises provocative questions about the nature of home and belonging, and speaks compellingly for a community whose voices are seldom heard. Madeleine Lim. 25 min. 1997.
Women Make Movies Sat. 12:00 p.m.

Skin Deep

Views from Norplant users, community health advocates and experts in a social and political analysis of the use of this new contraceptive technology. As diverse women share their experiences with Norplant, community leaders and public policy activists discuss the issues of informed consent and race and class discrimination raised by the current uses of this powerful drug. Alexandra Halkin and Deb Ellis. 15 min. 1997.
Women Make Movies Fri. 1:40 p.m.

Some Kind of Arrangement

Examination of the age-old tradition of arranged marriages in the midst of being adapted and transformed. Three young second-generation South Asian women make it clear that arranged marriages are not exactly what they used to be. Nowadays, they involve negotiation, beginning with introductory phone calls and matrimonial classifieds in Indian community newspapers and continuing with long distance trips, lengthy get-to-know-each-other sessions and the option of saying no. For those who eventually say yes to an arranged marriage, the tradition represents a celebration of and commitment to their Indian heritage. Ali Kazimi. 44 min. 1997.
National Film Board of Canada Sat. 11:10 a.m.

These Girls are Missing

Personal stories reveal how deep cultural attitudes, more than economics, undermine the future of Africa's girls and their education. More provocative than prescriptive, this film aims to inspire reflection, argument and deeper understanding of the educational situation of girls in Africa. Shari Robertson and Michael Camerini. 60 min. 1996.
Filmakers Library Sat. 1:30 p.m.

Through Chinese Women's Eyes

Insightful journey into the transformations in the lives of Chinese women over the 20th century. In a fascinating overview of sweeping cultural change, Chinese American anthropologist/director Mayfair Yang documents the attempts to erase gender difference under Mao and during the Cultural Revolution, today’s changing ideas of femininity, and the crystallization of Chinese feminism at the UN Women's Conference in Beijing. This sensitive portrayal of the daily experiences and historical memories of Chinese women from many walks of life is essential to an understanding of contemporary feminism. Mayfair Yang. 52 min. 1997.
Women Make Movies Sat. 2:35 p.m.

Treyf

Treyf (“unkosher” in Yiddish) is an unorthodox documentary by and about two Jewish lesbians who met and fell in love at a Passover seder. With compelling visuals and moving narratives, filmmakers Alisa Lebow and Cynthia Madansky create their own brand of progressive Jewish identity from a lesbian perspective. The result is an entertaining and witty film about the joys and paradoxes of contemporary Jewish lesbian life. Alisa Lebow and Cynthia Madansky. 54 min. 1998.
Women Make Movies Sat. 8:20 p.m.
Under the Willow Tree
Remarkable tale of courageous women who left their families behind in China, knowing they would never see them again. As girls, they faced the heart-wrenching odyssey of being shipped off to the New World to marry men they had never met. As women, they fought against the many forms of racism, while challenging sexism in their own community. Beautiful old photographs combine with the recollections of seven women who grew up in Canada in the first part of the twentieth century to produce a testament to the strength, resourcefulness and dignity of their forebears. Dora Nipp. 52 min. 1997.

The Way Home
Examination of what happened when eight ethnic councils of women came together to talk honestly about race, gender and class in the U.S. The result is an unpredictable collection of stories that reveal the far-reaching effects of social oppression and present an inspiring picture of women moving beyond the duality of black and white. The women's conversations offer rare access into their multi-dimensional cultural worlds mostly invisible to outsiders. With uncommon courage, the women speak their hearts and minds about resistance, love, assimilation, standards of beauty, power, school experiences and more. Shakti Butler. 90 min. 1998.

Women at Midlife
Profiles of several women ranging in age from 39 to 60 who discuss both the negative and positive impacts of menopause. It also outlines a variety of factors in achieving a healthy lifestyle in midlife. 28 min. 1996.

Women of Vision
Part Three entitled "Reassembly Required" interviews six female filmmakers whose careers began in the 1980s and 1990s when the Women's Movement had become only a story of mythic proportions. The careers of these women are based on the current, contradictory state of feminism: a movement under attack and in decline, reorganization and change. The interviewed filmmakers share a need to express their own interpretations of what American culture is and could be and a belief that this work is made particularly powerful through the media. Alexandra Juhasz. 29 min. 1998.

World of Difference

Zandile: In the Light of Ubuntu
Social and political struggle of South Africa's black community today. The video profiles Zandile Gumede, a 35-year old Zulu woman elected as a representative. In her struggle to bring social improvements to her community, and fight against ignorance, violence, machismo and oppressive conditions, Zandile draws her strength from Ubuntu, the ancestral belief that a person exists only through others. Michel Regnier. 52 min. 1997.

"Feminism Without Frontiers"

Gayatri Chakravorty Spivak is known not only as a scholar of deconstructive textual analysis of verbal, visual, and social texts and as a global feminist marxist; she is widely acknowledged as the conscience of the metropolitan politics of identity. Spivak's work has been translated into all the major European and Asian languages. She has taught at Brown, Texas-Austin, University of California-Santa Cruz, Université Paul Valéry, Jawaharlal Nehru University, Stanford, University of British Columbia, Goethe Universität in Frankfurt, Riyadh University, and Emory. Professor Spivak has held many important fellowships, has given many invited lectures, and has served on the editorial boards of many journals. She is active in rural literacy teacher training at the grassroots level in Aboriginal India and Bangladesh. Among her publications are Of Grammatology (translation with critical introduction of Jacques Derrida's De la grammatologie), Imaginary Maps and Breast Stories (translations with critical material of the fiction of Mahasweta Devi), In Other Worlds, The Post-Colonial Critic, and Outside in the Teaching Machine. Her book A Critique of Postcolonial Reason will appear from Harvard in 1999. She also publishes and lectures in her native Bengali.

Concurrent Sessions

Friday, June 18, 1999
8:00am - 9:15am

Friday, 8:00 - 9:15 AM. Concurrent Sessions

1. Retrospective on Radical Feminism
   Summer Suites, Corrales
   - Carolyn Lea, Bowling Green State Univ
   - Bronwyn Winter, Univ of Sidney
   - Kathy Miriam, Univ of New Mexico

   In light of recent theoretical and political challenges, the members of this roundtable invite you to join in reflecting on commitments to radical feminist theory and praxis. How adequate is a radical feminist explanatory framework and can it encompass an analysis of race and class?

2. The Exploration of Gender in Adolescence: Three Journeys Toward Balancing and Resolving Interdisciplinary Tension
   Radisson, Grand Ballroom 3
   - Ana Davis, Bates College
     Fathers and Daughters
   - Erin Carr, Bates College
     Protective Factors in Resilient Adolescent Females
   - Jessica Taisey, Bates College
     Gender Equity in Education

   This panel shares findings on three aspects of gender and adolescence: father-daughter relationships, protective factors of resilient girls, and gender equity in education. Through a discussion of these topics the panelists address the tension, challenge, and resolution of integrating the disciplines of Women's Studies and Psychology.

3. Activism: The Fundamental Link Between Women's Studies and Service Learning
   Summer Suites, Adobe
   - Patricia D. Rozee, California St Univ, Long Beach
   - Stephanie Evans, California St Univ, Long Beach
   - Michelle Aragon, California St Univ, Long Beach

   Community service learning provides a mechanism for student activism in the context of classroom learning and community involvement. Workshop participants will be guided through the basics of community service learning and how to incorporate it into their courses.

4. Women's Human Rights in International Perspective
   Summer Suites, Bosque
   - Yan Haiping, Univ of Colorado, Boulder
     Transnationality and Its Critique: Tropes of 'Borderland' in Ama Ata Aidoo's "Our Sister Killjoy"
   - Michiko Hase, Univ of Colorado, Boulder
     Challenges in Teaching Global Gender Issues in the US.
   - Kamal Kempadoo, Univ of Colorado, Boulder
     Sex Tourism and Child Prostitution: International Trends
   - Mecke Nagel, Minnesota State Univ
     Not Under Western Eyes?

   This panel explores the political ramifications of 'speaking for others' and teaching about subaltern subjects within Western human rights discourse and college curricula. Individual papers address exclusionary and exoticizing practices.

5. Postcolonialism and Feminist Theory
   Radisson, Cardisle
   - Phoebe Eng, Moderator
   - Kathleen L. Nichols, Pittsburg State Univ
     A Cross-Interrogation of Feminism and Post-Colonialism in Mukherjee's 'Jasmine'

   Mukherjee's novel can illustrate how the interrogation of feminism by post-colonialism and post-colonialism by feminism can lead to a greater global awareness of women's lives in different cultural contexts.

   Radisson, Grand Ballroom 6
   - Sandra Saunders, Australia
     An Indigenous Perspective: On Being the Object of Research
   - Diane Bell, George Washington Univ
     Feminist Ethnography on Trial: Making the Case in the Court of Public Opinion
Concurrent Sessions

Friday June 18, 1999  8:00am - 9:15am

· Susan Hawthorne, Spinifex Press
  Publishing, Ethics and the Rights of Indigenous Women: Weighing the Costs
  Indigenous women struggling to protect their sacred sites are accused of fabrication; feminist anthropology is on trial; the media is sued. Hear from the women, researchers and publishers.

7. Speaking for Ourselves: Women’s Representations of Women in Film, Visual Art, and Literature
Radisson, Grand Ballroom 5

· Barbara Mortimer, Georgia Perimeter College, Dunwoody Campus
  Telling the Woman’s Story: Martha Coolidge’s “Rambling Rose” and Agnieszka Holland’s “Washington Square” as Feminist Film Adaptations

· Nancy L. Chick, Univ of Wisconsin, Barron Co.
  Reading, Writing, and Black Women’s Texts: The Cautionary Tales of Toni Morrison, Adrian Piper, and Lorna Simpson

· Karen Weekes, Univ of Georgia, Athens
  Ordering a Self: Multi-Ethnic Identity in Chavez’s “The Last of the Menu Girls”
  Panelists discuss issues of culture, ethnicity, and identity influencing female artists’ depictions of women in various written and visual media.

8. Women and Mass Media
Radisson, Grand Ballroom 4

· Beverly G. Merrick, New Mexico State Univ
  How Mary Margaret McBride and Estella Karn Overcame: Battling Politics and Prejudice With a Popular Women’s Radio Program
  Mary Margaret McBride filled Yankee Stadium with her fans on the 15th anniversary of her radio broadcasts in May 1949. A year later, McBride and her radio manager, Estella Karn, fought the biggest battle of their lives to stay on the air as male executives tried to wrest control of the all-woman’s program from them.

· Jennifer Abod, Hofstra Univ
  The Zeitgeist of Women’s Radio in Second Wave Feminism
  This paper addresses the early visions contributing to the rise of feminist radio, the formats created, and the conflicts encountered.

9. Studying Your Own Program: Oral History in Women’s Studies
Radisson, Cavalier

· Shane Phelan, Univ of New Mexico
· Ann Nihlen, Univ of New Mexico
· Carmen Salazar, Univ of New Mexico
· Monica Torres, Univ of New Mexico
  Drawing on the results of their oral history project at the University of New Mexico, panelists discuss the benefits and the processes of studying one’s own women’s studies program.

10. Cultivating Feisty Feminists Among Frail Flowers: Women’s Studies in the Conservative South
Radisson, Parlor 2

· Jane A. Rose, Georgia College & State Univ
· Viki Soady, Valdosta State Univ
· Jane McCandless, West Georgia State Univ
· Charlene Black, Georgia Southern Univ
  Panelists address practical strategies for developing and maintaining a viable women’s studies presence in a conservative milieu, like the Bible Belt of the South.

11. Teaching Global Women’s Issues in Diverse Classrooms
Radisson, Cotillion 1

· Mary Ertel, Central Connecticut State Univ
  Global Women’s Issues: Feminist Pedagogy and the World Wide Web

· Diana Fox, Univ of Massachusetts, Amherst
  Women’s Movements and Human Rights in Global Perspective

· Ingrid Bartsch, Univ of South Florida
  Women, Environment and Gender
  Teaching global women’s issues as framed by the Beijing platform of action from the view of sociology, women’s studies, and anthropology. Focus on interdisciplinary approaches with common feminist pedagogy and common core; development of increased levels of feminism and activism in students.
12. Feminist Pedagogies and Disciplinary Difference
Radisson, Cotillion 2

- Berenice Fisher, New York Univ
Philosophy and Education in Feminist Pedagogical Practice

- Lyn Kathlene, Univ of Nebraska
Approaching Political Science and Policy Processes as a Feminist Teacher

- Patrocinio Schweickart, Purdue Univ
Feminist Teaching in Literature and Literary Theory

Panelists explore the impact of their various disciplinary commitments on how they think about and practice feminist teaching.

13. Expanding Identities: Bridges, Boundary Crossings, and Asian Differences
Holiday Inn, Atrium 2

- Ingrid Alongi, San Diego State Univ
Bridging the Metaphor: A Critical Look at Privilege and ‘Othering’

- Joy Sapinoso, San Diego State Univ
The Other Women of Color: Asian Feminists and Asian Feminist Thought

- Beverly Yuen Thompson, San Diego State Univ
Transgressing the Socially Constructed Boundaries of Racial and Sexual Identity: Bisexual and Multiracial Asian/Pacific Islander Women in the Monoculture

These papers examine the theories and realities of difference—othering, hierarchies and dichotomies. In their analysis and expansion of identity politics the authors engage in the (re)development of discourses surrounding race in third wave feminism.

14. Intergroup Dialogues, Feminism and Women’s Studies: Making Connections
Radisson, Parlor 1

- Sharon Howell, Oakland Univ, Rochester, MI
- Susan Baker, Oakland Univ, Rochester, MI

The intergroup dialogue movement is receiving little attention from women's studies programs. The purpose of this roundtable is to bring together women who are concerned with creating closer ties between feminism and women's studies.

15. How Do We Know We’re Succeeding?: Assessing Campus-Based Women’s Centers
Radisson, Cotillion 3

- Mary Goldschmidt, Ramapo College of New Jersey
- Donna E. Lisker, The Women’s Center at Virginia Tech
- Penny Burge, The Women’s Center at Virginia Tech

Panelists discuss effective assessment techniques appropriate for campus-based women’s centers including self-study, and internal and external review.

16. Revisions in Lesbian History: Rethinking Public and Private Identities in the 1940s and 1950s
Radisson, Fiesta

- Elizabeth Lapovsky Kennedy, Univ of Arizona, Tucson
I Don’t Envy You Hating to Sort Out This Mess After I’m Gone: A Lesbian’s Decision to Marry, Buffalo, NY, 1942

- Nan Alamilla Boyd, Univ of Colorado, Boulder
Rethinking Public Sex: Lesbians and Prostitutes in San Francisco’s Tourist Cultures

- Yolanda Retter, Univ of Southern California
Out of the Closets & Into the Los Angeles Streets

Panelists present recent work in lesbian history contrasting private and public expressions of lesbianism. The papers aim to illuminate the relation between the construction of identity and political subjectivity.

17. Building Assets in Middle-School Girls: College Women Mentoring Middle-School Girls in an Urban-Profile Small Town
Holiday Inn, Atrium 1

- Trisha Franzen, Albion College
- Mimi Badenhorst, Albion College
- Jocelin Herron, Albion College
- Lisa Leitz, Albion College
- Nadia Thomas, Albion College
- Sara Whitfield, Albion College
Fourteen Albion College women students participated in a year-long seminar mentoring Albion’s “at-risk” middle-school girls. In this roundtable several of the mentors share the results of this project and consider how projects such as this one relate to and have been informed by women’s studies, feminist theory, feminist research methodology, and feminist activism.

18. Gender Bias in Science Education
Holiday Inn, Atrium 3

- Hilary Lapsley, University of Waikato, Moderator
- Angela Johnson, Univ of Colorado, Boulder
  Constructing Identity Against and Within the Gendered Discourses of Science and Teaching
  Women science teachers exist at the intersections of science (historically masculine) and teaching (historically feminine). How do they craft identities in this multiply gendered context?

- Heidi Carlone, Univ of Colorado, Boulder
  Constructing Gender in High School Physics: Contesting Sociohistorical Legacies
  The author examines girls’ experiences in a progressive high school physics classroom, paying attention to the ways in which the social practices of the class countered traditional (and historically alienating) meanings of physics.

- Jenifer Helms, Univ of Colorado, Boulder
  Gender Neutrality in the Lives of Women Science Teachers
  This paper examines women science teachers’ life history and the ways they believe gender has (or has not) impacted their choices. Implications for science and science teaching are discussed.

19. Women Artists of the American West: An Internet Course and CD-ROM
Radisson, Parlor 3

Susan Ressler, Purdue University

Women Artists of the American West is a distance learning course and Internet resource designed to promote the study of women artists west of the Mississippi during their past two-hundred years. For more information see the website at http://www.sla.purdue.edu/waaw/

20. Lesbian Caucus
Radisson, Delfinos

21. Spirituality Task Force
NWSA Suite
Concurrent Sessions

Friday, June 18, 1999
9:30am - 10:45am

22. How to Work the System: Tips and Tactics for Women Faculty
Radisson, Carlisle
- Sharon Leder, Nassau Comm. College, Chair
- Ann Frank Wake, Elmhurst College
  Strategies for Curricular Transformation in a Skeptical Environment
- Suzanna Rose, Univ of Missouri, St. Louis
  Tips and Tactics for Women Faculty: Negotiating Higher Salaries for Women in Academe
- Emily Toth, Louisiana State Univ
  What To Do When You Are Surrounded by Idiots
- Virginia Bemis, Ashland Univ
  How To Be Seen (And Valued) On Campus
  What happens to new women's studies and women faculty once they graduate with their higher degrees? How do you work the system as newly hired faculty member or as a faculty member up for tenure and/or promotion?

23. An Interdisciplinary Examination of Private and Public Spaces in Women's Lives
Radisson, Grand Ballroom 3
- Marjean D. Purinton, Texas Tech Univ, Moderator
- Danielle Roth-Johnson, Lubbock, TX
  Making the Private Public: The Auto-biographical World of Violette Leduc
- Cynthia Burack, Univ of Florida, Gainesville
  Public Theory/Private Emotion: Black Feminist Thought in the Undergraduate Classroom
- Jyl J. Josephson, Texas Tech Univ
  Privacy and Reproduction in Women's Lives: Citizenship, Self-Determination, and Reproductive Liberty
  This interdisciplinary panel examines private and public spaces in women's lives from literary, pedagogical, and political perspectives. Panelists discuss the specific applications of spatial relationships to women's identificatory processes, to pedagogical implications of feminist theory, and to the realization of reproductive freedoms for all women.

24. Women's Studies and Careers: Mentoring Professionals of Conscience
Sumner Suites, Bosque
- Kathleen Laughlin, Metropolitan St Univ
- Carol Lowe, Metropolitan St Univ
- Susan Giguere, Metropolitan St Univ
- Willa Young, The Ohio St Univ
  Roundtable presenters, comprised of a career counselor, an internship director, a women's studies faculty member, and an administrator, will present the basic aspects of the job-search process for women's studies graduates: marketing the liberal arts degree, networking, and obtaining career placement, especially in professional social action work.

25. Intersections of Post-Coloniality and Feminism in the Americas: Waves and Currents
Radisson, Cavalier
- Angelica J. Huizar, Univ of California, Irvine
  Mexican Feminist Thought: Intersections of Post-Colonialism and Feminism
- Cynthia M. Ovando-Knutson, Univ of California, Irvine
  Streams of Living Water and a Crayon-Colored Revolution: Towards Readings of 'Third World' Texts as Feminist Theory
  This panel highlights social movements and political developments of 'feminisms' in Mexico and postulations of Brazilian literary texts as feminist theory.

26. Who Speaks For the Colonized Woman
Radisson, Parlor 3
- Jihee Han, Univ of Tulsa
  Making a Materialist Third World Feminism in an International Frame
  This paper investigates the limits of Western feminism and current issues of third world feminism, and then, the possibility of a materialist third world feminism.
- Tapati Bharadwaj, Univ of Cincinnati
  When is the Subaltern not the Subaltern: Issues of Agency and Knowledge Production
What is the subaltern? Why do postcolonial feminists refer to them as always being represented with no agency? Is there any other way in which we can write about the subaltern?

Francoise Dussart, Univ of Connecticut
Women, Ritual and Leadership in Central Australia

This paper attempts to reconcile seemingly contradictory notions of hierarchic and egalitarian social structure as made manifest in the ritual life of an Aboriginal settlement located in the Central Australian Desert. Recent feminist theory seeks to provide a model for rethinking feminist ritual life.

27. Women's Studies and Scientific Literacy: Conversations about Critique and Content
Sumner Suites, Corrales

- Bonnie Shulman, Bates College
- Elizabeth Tobin, Bates College
Your Critique, My Content: The Difficulties of Crossing Academic Boundaries

- Pamela Baker, Bates College
Balancing Content and Critique: Faculty Development

- Sharon Kinsman, Bates College
Balancing Content and Critique with Students

Why do scientists and women's studies scholars find it difficult to communicate, even in faculty seminars or undergraduate courses designed to facilitate conversations? Panelists report on successes and failures with these projects.

28. Constructing/Constraining the Female Body
Radisson, Grand Ballroom 5

- Julie Herron, Univ of Akron
Weight Goals and Collegiate Cheerleading: The Real Skinny

The author takes a comprehensive look at the history of cheerleading, specifically relating to college cheerleaders and their use of weight goals, and their experiences with eating disorders.

- Amy E. Farrell, Dickinson College
Hungry Consumers: the History of Women and the Diet Industry in the U.S.

This paper is the first part of a larger study of the diet industry in the U.S. from 1900 to the present. It focuses on the origins of the diet industry aimed at women in the first three decades of the 20th century.

- Grace Lager, Texas Tech Univ
Liberating Articles or Oppressive Reproduction: A Rhetorical Analysis of Popular Media Discourse Concerning Anorexia

In this analysis of popular media, the author proposes that anorexia is not simply a matter of unattainable ideals about feminine beauty or perfectionist tendencies that lead some girls and women to starve themselves. It is by creating unattainable beauty standards and focusing on women's bodies rather than their abilities, that patriarchal ideologies about the body and gender maintain power over women.

29. Second Class Citizens or Valuable Partners: Community College Women's Studies Programs Working Effectively With Their 4-Year College Sister Programs
Radisson, Grand Ballroom 6

- Harriet Levi, Clark College
- Sharon Hileman, Sul Ross State Univ
- Judith Roy, Century College
- Mary Davidson, Columbia-Greene Comm Coll

Many women have their first experience with feminist ideas and women's issues at their local community college and then transfer to a 4-year school, yet this important launching point is often invisible. In this workshop we will explore the ways that 2 and 4-year schools can work together more effectively to facilitate transfer to 4-year schools and engage women in solving local and global women's problems.

30. Ongoing Struggle Against Racism in Women's Studies
Radisson, Cotillion 1

- Ann Russo, DePaul Univ
Program Agendas and Group Dynamics

- Laurie S. Fuller, Northeastern Illinois Univ
Curriculum and Pedagogy

- Cindy Jenefsky, John F. Kennedy Univ, San Francisco
Teaching, Evaluation and Retention
We address racism and related oppressions within women’s studies curriculum, pedagogy, leadership, faculty, students, agendas, and process with the goal of sharing strategies for change and developing of a network for organizing locally and nationally.

31. She-Wolves in Sheepskin: Women Writing the Personal in Academia
_Holiday Inn, Atrium 1_
- Judith Levin, Univ of Nebraska, Lincoln
  _LifeWork: Connecting Academic Writing, Teaching and Sense of Self_
- Beth Torgerson, Univ of Nebraska, Lincoln
  _Dissertation on Illness, Writing Towards Health_
- Rene Meaker, Univ of Nebraska, Lincoln
  _The Closet Isn’t Big Enough for Both of Us: Conflict Between Self and Institution_

We explore ways that women’s studies can support reflection on personal experience as a source of insight for academic writing and teaching, and ways this academic practice can strengthen scholar/teacher experience of self.

32. Talking the Walk: Teaching Feminist Activism
_Radisson, Cotillion 2_
- Linda Garber, California State Univ, Fresno
- Kathryn Forbes, California State Univ, Fresno
- Loretta Kensinger, California State Univ, Fresno
- Janet Slagter, California State Univ, Fresno

Brief presentations followed by a discussion focusing on feminist critiques of community service as a pedagogical model, and on both theoretical and practical concerns regarding designing and teaching a course whose explicit curriculum is feminist activism.

33. Feminist Research on Sex Work: New Directions and Dialogues
_Radisson, Cotillion 3_
- Kathryn Hausbek, Univ of Nevada, Las Vegas
- Cheryl Radeloff, Univ of Nevada, Las Vegas
- Michele Berger, Univ of Nevada, Las Vegas
- Barbara G. Brents, Univ of Nevada, Las Vegas

This roundtable begins where last year’s NWSA plenary on the sex industry left off by addressing seven themes that the presenters have derived from their own research on various aspects of sex work. We focus on the development of new directions for theory and research on the sex industry.

34. Performing Race, Gender, and Sexuality in Schools
_Holiday Inn, Atrium 2_
- Luanne Frank, Univ of Texas, Arlington, Moderator
- Claire Porter, Univ of Memphis
  _You Just Gotta Beat Them Down: School Sexual Harassment and Black High School Girls’ Emotional Labor_

A presentation and analysis of the everyday coping strategies employed by working class African American girls in an urban high school setting, in response to male sexual harassment.

- Leora Tanenbaum, New York, NY
  _Slut-Bashing in High Schools and the Sexual Double Standard_
  Slut-bashing—when a girl is ostracized by her peers as a “slut”—is a perfect example of the sexual double standard. This paper examines why and how the “slut” is targeted, how she copes, and how she may unwittingly reinforce the sexual double standard herself.

35. Subjectivity and Space: American Women’s Regional Writing
_Holiday Inn, Atrium 3_
- Michelle Campbell Toohey, Westmoreland County Community College
  _Landscape and the Woman Artist in the Southwest: Mary Austin’s Seyavi_
- Jennifer A. Gehrman, Fort Lewis College

94. Women Talk About Race, Gender and Class in America- "The Way Home"
Radisson, Cavalier

- Shakti Butler, World Trust

Over the course of eight months, sixty-four women, representing a cross section of cultures in America, came together to share their experiences of oppression through the lens of race. The Way Home shows what happened.
95. Developing Voices for Justice in the Classroom: The -ISM Project
Ratliff, Grand Ballroom 5

- Julia Balen, Univ of Arizona
  For those who have been silenced, coming to voice in powerful ways is an important step toward resolving conflict, healing oppressive behaviors, and working for justice. We will discuss the -ISM Project pilot course and plans for further implementation.

- Estina Thompson, Univ of Maryland, Moderator
  Thomas Piontek, The Ohio State Univ
  *Telling the Stories of Women with HIV/AIDS: Feminism and the Limits of Representation
  The author's paper explores ways for feminist researchers to hold on to the project of restoring the lost voices of women with HIV/AIDS in the face of the loss of innocence of feminist methodology and the limits of representation.

- Simona Fojtova, Univ of New Mexico
  Changing Their Minds: The Epistemological Quandary of Knowledge and Desire
  If one believes in the notion of Western epistemology as dominant, patriarchal, and oppressive, one must necessarily believe in the efficacy of criticism and in the articulation of alternative epistemology/ies. If we want to change "our" (or somebody else's) mind, must we change knowledge, epistemology or both?

- Jane Buck, Chesapeake, MD
  Some Suggestions for Improving Research Methods in the Social and Behavioral Sciences
  The author explores some possible ways that existing practices in measurement and statistics might become more responsive to some of the legitimate concerns of feminist (and other) critics.

- Jessica Simmons, San Diego State Univ
  The Transformation of Sexual Identity Through the Relationship with Food in Mei Ng's "Eating Chinese Food Naked"
Women teachers use a rhetoric associated with a daughter-in-law in understanding the hierarchy in which they are situated. The rhetoric carries the power of daughter-in-laws as narrators of their own stories.

- Kylie Joy Harris, Central Queensland Univ, Australia

Looking at the Desires of Women Principals Through a Female Feminist Lens: Anything But “Lacking”

The specific themes incorporated in the body of this analysis include reflections and revisionings of female feminist positions on desire and methodology.

102. Understanding Domestic and Institutional Violence
Holiday Inn, Atrium 2

- Lori B. Girshick, Warren Wilson College

Rape: The Case of Lesbian Sexual Assault

The author discusses the multiple issues involved in studying lesbian partner rape: studying a stigmatized population, exploring relatively unexplored topics, and challenging patriarchal context.

- Nancy Norvell, The Univ of Texas, Permian Basin

Women's Wellness: Issues of Dating Violence from the Perspectives of Formerly Battered Women in Prison

This paper provides unique resources related to dating violence. Dating violence encompasses patterns requiring education for the general population in order to deter its existence.

Unruly Knowledge: Women’s Studies and the Problem of Disciplinarity

Born in Kansas City, Missouri, Marilyn Jacoby Boxer attended Wellesley College but completed her education in California, receiving her bachelor's degree—with three children in attendance—at the University of Redlands and her Ph.D. in history at the University of California, Riverside. Commencing doctoral studies concurrently with the revival of feminism in 1970, she became a pioneer scholar in European women's history and chaired the nation's first women's studies program at San Diego State University from 1974-1980, before becoming dean of the college there, followed by seven years as academic vice-president at San Francisco State University. She is currently an Affiliated Scholar at Stanford University's Institute for Research on Women and Gender and teaches modern European history at San Francisco State. She is author, co-author, or co-editor of books on socialism and feminism in European history, on European women in modern history, and on the development of women's studies in U.S. higher education.

Marjorie Pryse

Trans/Feminist Methodology: Bridges to Interdisciplinary Thinking

Marjorie Pryse, Professor of English and Women's Studies at the University at Albany, State University of New York, has an interdisciplinary background, combining graduate degrees in Literature and Social Welfare with experience working in mental health and with adolescents in the probation system, directing a multi-year across-the-disciplines curriculum transformation project, and developing curriculum and teaching in the undergraduate and graduate classroom. She is Past President of the National Women's Studies Association (1995-96), serves as Chair of the NWSA Task Force on Faculty Roles and Rewards ("Defining Women's Studies Scholarship"), and is currently completing a term as Chair of the NWSA Membership Committee. Feminist publications include Conjuring: Black Women, Fiction, and Literary Tradition (co-edited with Hortense Spillers) and American Women Regionalists: A Norton Anthology (co-edited with Judith Fetterley), as well as recent articles, “Critical Interdisciplinarity, Women's Studies, and Cross-Cultural Insight” (NWSA Journal, Spring 1998) and “Sex, Class, and ‘Category Crisis’: Reading Jewett’s Transitivity” (American Literature, September 1998).

Mary Romero

Framing Interdisciplinary Debates in Women's Studies: Are We Part of the Cultural Wars?

Mary Romero is the author of Maid in the U.S.A., co-editor of Challenging Fronteras: Structuring Latina and Latina Lives in the U.S., Women and Work: Exploring Race, Ethnicity and Class, and Women’s Untold Stories: Breaking Silence, Talking Back, Voicing Complexity. She is the editor of four sets of Syllabi and Instructional Materials for Chicana/o and Latina/o Studies in Sociology for the American Sociological Association Teaching Resource Center, and two volumes of published National Association for Chicano Studies Conference proceedings. She has published numerous journal articles in the area of women and work, race relations in education and labor, and social justice issues. She has held administrative positions at Yale, San Francisco State, and the University of Oregon; and has also taught at the universities of Colorado, Texas at El Paso, and Wisconsin-Parkside. Her institutional affiliations have included women's studies, ethnic studies, Chicana/o and Latina/o Studies, and sociology. She currently teaches in the School of Justice Studies at Arizona State University.

Changing the World: Reconciling Differences between Academic and Activist Feminisms

Robin Melavalin
Changing the World: Feminist Photography and Activism

Shareen Ahmed is a feminist activist who hopes to make the world a better place. She received a B.A. in Women's Studies summa cum laude from the University of Arizona in 1998. She has received several awards including graduation with University Honors and Outstanding Departmental Senior, and was recently nominated for the University's prestigious Nugent and Goldberg awards. Currently, she is employed with the Feminist Majority Foundation as an organizer for the Campaign to Stop Gender Apartheid in Afghanistan. She plans to obtain a J.D. with an emphasis in civil and human rights law and to continue her activist efforts. This is her first time speaking at an academic conference.

Robin Melavalin, who received her B.A. in Women's Studies from San Diego State University in 1987, describes herself as a visual activist. She facilitates "Power Portrait" workshops for women in homeless shelters and teaches women how to facilitate empowerment workshops for girls. The "Girls' Eye View" curriculum she developed for the Girl Scouts engaged 700 girls throughout New England in photographing their lives. She has attended many international women's conferences including Beijing, where she held a workshop about media images of women. Her work has been exhibited and published widely, including in the 1998 edition of Our Bodies, Ourselves. She teaches, lectures, and serves as a consultant on diversity issues, conflict resolution, and building alliances.

  An Old Woman Like Me: Jewett and Her Readers at Century's End
- Barbara Ewell, Loyola Univ
  New Born Creature: The Awakening as Anticipatory Text

Panel on literary visions, historical circumstances, and women's issues in 1899 and 1999 drawing on three 1899 works.

129. Activism Fostered Through Education of Women's Studies
Radisson, Grand Ballroom 3

- Jennifer M. Oravecz, Millersville Univ
- Rachael E. Busch, Clarion Univ
- Danelle Bower, Kutztown Univ

The presenters examine how women's studies education can foster activism by exploring the spiral effect of initiating education at a secondary education level, addressing feminist and women's studies issues and stereotypes, and describing how a Social Work framework can be utilized to promote sensitivity to the needs of all women.

130. Translating Theory, Translating Practice: Teaching Feminism and (Post)Colonialism in the Two-Year Community College
Radisson, Cavalier

- Eileen Chia-Ching Fung, Univ of San Francisco, Chair
- Rowena Tomaneng Matsunari, De Anza College
  Literature Courses and the Uses of Post-Colonial Theories

- Elizabeth Mjelde, De Anza College
  Practicing Postcoloniality in the Art History Classroom
- Cynthia Kaufman, De Anza College
  The Challenges and Benefits of Appropriating Post-Colonial Theory for Use in a Transformative Classroom

Panelists explore various strategies of translating feminist and post-colonial theories into effective pedagogy for interdisciplinary classrooms at the two-year college level.

131. Demystifying Menopausal Controversies
Radisson, Grand Ballroom 4

- Mariamne H. Whatley, Univ of Wisconsin, Madison
- Nancy Worcester, Univ of Wisconsin, Madison

Workshop presenters demystify the headlines and controversies related to menopause and introduce resources and ideas for teaching about the medicalization of menopause and the marketing of menopausal products.

132. Latin American Women: Challenging Patriarchy From Within
Radisson, Grand Ballroom 5

- Mary Bellman, Univ of New Mexico
  The (Mis)representation of Women in the Argentine Labor Movement: The Battle for Leadership
- Carolyn Fairman, Univ of New Mexico
  Agreement on the Rights and Identity of Women?: Success and Failure in the Guatemalan Peace Process
- Judy Palier, Univ of New Mexico
  The Origins and Processes of Power in Women's Grassroots Organizing: A Study of Two Cases

Women in Latin America, as elsewhere, confront a broad range of constraints as they work to defend their rights and expand their roles within patriarchal contexts. The papers in this session examine some of the ways that women have negotiated the constraints in three very different contexts, as they have organized to articulate different demands in their respective societies.

133. Still in School, Still Young—and Feminist: Students Respond to the Signs Issue on “Feminism and Youth Cultures”
Sumner Suites, Corrales
- Holly Laird, Univ of Tulsa, Chair
- Cristina Dascalu, Univ of Tulsa
- Jihee Han, Univ of Tulsa
- Olivia Martin, Univ of Tulsa
- Shara Narayan, Univ of Tulsa
- Pauline Newton, Univ of Tulsa

Departing from what most provoked them in the 1998 issue of Signs, “Feminisms and Youth Cultures”, several students—speaking from highly culturally diverse backgrounds—comment on their experiences with academic feminism.

134. Professional Philosophers and Philosophizing the Personal, or: Since the Unexamined Life is Not Worth Living, Can I Examine Mine and Put it on my CV?
Radisson, Parlor 2
- Peg O’Connor, Gustavus Adolphus College
- Abby Wilkerson, George Washington Univ
- Lisa Heldke, Gustavus Adolphus College

Philosophy, as a discipline, remains more suspicious of personal reflection than perhaps any other discipline in the humanities. The panelists will present three examples of philosophizing the personal.

135. Crossing the Tracks: Gender Justice with Young Mothers in a High School Teen Parenting Class
Radisson, Grand Ballroom 6
- Isa Williams, Agnes Scott College

The author calls for a theory-based introductory course in women’s studies. By moving within and across established frames of reference and witnessing how they condition one’s view of social reality, students become prepared to engage in what Maria Lugones calls “playful world traveling” and to appreciate both the integrity and complexity of diverse perspectives. Such a pedagogical approach hones critical thinking skills vital to postmodern democracy.

 12:45pm - 2:00pm

· Erin E. Ceynar, Univ of North Dakota
  Mapping the Feminist Self

Women's Studies programs at the undergraduate level continue to flourish, and yet there is little if any information about how undergraduate students experience these courses. The purpose of this paper is to address men's and women's experience with “Introduction to Women's Studies”.

· L.J. "Tess" Tessier, Youngston, OH
  Is It Time to “Unname” Feminism?

A new look at feminism, both as a label and as a concept. How do women's studies students understand the relationship between feminism and women's studies and what difference does that make for the future of women's studies?

138. Teaching For/About Women and the Future: Multidisciplinary Perspectives
Radisson, Cotillion 2

· Maureen McHugh, Indiana Univ of Pennsylvania
· Michelle Durham, Greenbelt, MD
· Tania Ramalho, Susquehanna Univ

Presenters discuss the rational that informs multidisciplinary courses on women and the future. Presenters will share course syllabi and teaching strategies. Participants are encouraged to bring their own syllabi, materials and ideas to share.

139. Theory, Gender, and Language
Radisson, Parlor 1

· Aileen Hall, Ohio Univ, Moderator

· Jace Condravy, Slippery Rock Univ
  From Interruptions to Neologisms: The Impact of Feminist Theory on Women and Language Study

The author explores how feminist theory may clarify some of the major events in the study of women and language as they have emerged in the U.S. from the mid-1970s.

· Stacy Alaimo, Univ of Texas, Arlington
  Undomesticated Ground: Writing Nature as Feminist Space

Despite feminist theory's flight from nature, nature continues to be a crucial space for the cultural work of feminism.

· Melisa Creamer, Eastern New Mexico Univ
  The Discourse of Recovery: A Post-Structural View

The author focuses on the discourse of a network of 12-step programs. Female participants in Alcoholics Anonymous in southeastern New Mexico and the electronic list-serve (GrayNet) messages for the Graysheet organization within Overeaters Anonymous are evaluated as they relate to postulates of post-structuralist theory.

Panelists examine recent trends in the feminist analysis of research approaches and methodologies, identify existing gaps in the literature, and explore specific research methods useful for the interdisciplinary field of women's studies. Presenters employ a wide range of feminist methods including black women's literary criticism, discourse analysis, ethnography, case study and action research.

141. Photomontage: Writing with Visual Images Across Difference(s) With Desire Toward Equity
Sumner Suites, Adobe

· Catherine Green, New York Univ

Participants will view examples of photomontage (collages of photographic fragments). We will construct photomontages and discuss pedagogical implications of this process.
142. Rescripting the Image of Women’s Lives in Film and Television
Holiday Inn, Atrium 1

Elizabeth Weber, Univ of Indianapolis
Lost in the Net: The Self-Defined Woman as Heroine
The Net, starring Sandra Bullock, redefines the 'woman as protagonist' paradigm. The Net deserves to be looked at as an alternative to the self-negating model of women's lives portrayed by mass media.

Jill Mackey, Lincoln Univ
Subtext and Countertext in Muriel's Wedding'
The subtext of Muriel's Wedding is a scathing critique of romance, weddings, and heteropatriarchy, while the countertext allows for a lesbian appropriation and rereading.

Patrice Caldwell, Eastern New Mexico Univ
Network Feminism? The Curious Case of 'Ally McBeal'
Feminists differ radically over Fox Network's hit Ally McBeal. Does 'Ally' reenscribe status-quo values for professional women, reversing women's advances in the workplace? Or does it propose a viable 90s feminism?

143. Feminist Mentoring in Theory and Practice: Graduate Women Scholars of Southern California

150. No Limits for Women I: Exploring Internalized Oppression, Developing Strategies of Resistance

* Sumner Suites, Corrales

- Christina Brinkley, Simmons College, Chair
- Carol Robinson, Univ of Missouri, St. Louis
- Penny Rosenwasser, California Institute for Integral Studies
- Tania Tamarillo, Susquehanna Univ
- Barbara Jacobskind, Univ of Massachusetts, Dartmouth

Sponsored by the Jewish Caucus and the Women of Color Caucus. Women from various backgrounds present their diverse perspectives on internalized sexism, racism, classism, ableism, homophobia, Jewish oppression and ageism—followed by a discussion with the audience about insights and possible solutions. A double session continued at 3:45 pm in this location.

151. Teaching Feminist Theory

* Radisson, Carlisle

- Wendy Kolmar, Drew Univ
- Fran Bartkowski, Rutgers Univ

This roundtable discussion is focused around questions for teaching feminist theory which the presenters confronted as they co-edited a feminist theory reader for publication.

152. Defining Women's Studies as Interdisciplinary

* Radisson, Cavalier

- Catherine E. Boyle, Wichita State Univ
  * Queer, Feminist Sociologist? Shouldn't You be in Women's Studies?

The purpose of this paper is to bring to light the experiences of women who identify with a discipline while simultaneously building coalition with interdisciplinary programs such as women's studies. How do we take advantage of feminist, queer, interdisciplinary networks while surviving disciplinary boundary imperatives?

- Anne Sisson Runyan, Wright State Univ
  * Problematizing Interdisciplinarity: Women's Studies and International Studies

The author examines the tensions between very different interdisciplinary projects—Women's Studies and International Studies—and the problematics of interdisciplinarity that can be seen when these two projects intersect.

- Susanne Luhmann, York Univ
  * Subject of Tension? Women's Studies at the Intersections of Interdisciplinarity and Social Differences

The author traces central tensions in women's studies—the question of social differences and interdisciplinarity—how they together produce the field as we know it.

153. Immigrants, Natives, and Pioneers: Feminist and (Post)Colonial Encounters

* Radisson, Cotillion 1

- Laurie Fuller, Northeastern Illinois Univ
  * Pioneer Ancestors and Post-Coloniality: Whiteness as Normalcy in the Midwestern US

Who is "the Developed Woman?" Negotiating Gendered Identities in Contested Terrain

- Sangeeta Luthra, Atlanta, GA
International Feminism and Development: Indian Activists and the Fourth World Conference on Women

We examine how the category "women" is deployed by activists and members of NGOs in three sites in India, focusing on issues of local interpretations and the salience of this category for diverse women's lives.

156. Lesbians Defining Themselves: Identity and Community
Radisson, Cotillion 2

- Amy Hauer, Univ of Maryland, Baltimore County
Just For the Sake of Not Being Called Queer: Writing Lesbian Identity in Letters to "The Ladder"

Through the study of narratives by lesbians of color, letters written to the editors of The Ladder, and the stories of a recovering academic this panel examines the formation of lesbian identities and communities.

157. Documenting Our Organizing: The Women and Organizing Documentation Project (WODP)
Summer Suites, Adobe

- Rhoda Linton, Union Institute Center for Women, Moderator
- Jaime Grant, Center for Third World Organizing
- Rinku Sen, Center for Third World Organizing
- Victoria Bomberry, Stanford Univ

Roundtable presenters report on both the multi-year process of working with a remarkable national network of women and on the results from the final March 1999 gathering of these women.

158. From a Student's Perspective: The Future of Women's Studies
Summer Suites, Bosque

- Sheela Namakkal, St. Paul, MN
- Christina Rieck, St. Paul, MN
- Mafo Kamanda-Kossett, Minneapolis, MN
- Rebecca Dreke, St. Paul, MN
- Lindsay Brice, Minneapolis, MN

This roundtable discussion focuses on the future of women's studies as it pertains to the preparation of women's studies students for graduate school and future careers.

159. The Ownership of Ideas and the Negotiation of Difference: Collaborative Writing in the Twenty-First Century
Radisson, Parlor 1

- Sara Patterson, Claremont Graduate Univ
- Jennifer Naccarelli, Claremont Graduate Univ

Drawing from our collaborative experience and the theoretical structures that inform such experience, we dedicate our workshop to understanding collaborative effort as a bridge between theory and practice.
160. How Women's Studies May Reach More People and Effect More Change
Radisson, Grand Ballroom 5

· Audrey Fisch, New Jersey Univ
· Lisa Botshon, Univ of Maine at Augusta

Women's Studies: More Lessons From the Frontlines

The author argues that despite the prevalence and acceptability of women's studies in major institutions, in other institutions, notably those that serve non-traditional students, women's studies is nearly as vulnerable as it was in the nineteen seventies.

· N.J. Usha Rao, Bangalore, India

Towards Gender Equality: The Role of Women's Studies

Women's Studies centers in India have proliferated in the last two decades, but they have not been very effective in promoting gender equality in various spheres of life. Women's studies needs to include men in their discussions, to disseminate their findings to reach the common man and woman in society, to find ways and means to impress upon the women the need to change the patterns of socialization that perpetuate gender discrimination.

· Sharon Meagher, Univ of Scranton

Women's Studies in Taiwan

The author presents findings on Women's Studies in Taiwan, including both the levels of institutional recognition achieved and their approaches to dealing with issues of diversity and internationalism.

161. Trans-Gendering the Feminist Subject(s): Pedagogy, Curriculum and the Inclusion of Gender Diversity
Radisson, Grand Ballroom 6

· Jo Ryan, Cedar Falls, IA
· Amymarie Moser, Cedar Falls, IA

Workshop presenters aim to encourage educators to add transgender issues to their curricula, especially women's studies. The relationship, historically of feminism to transgenderness has been marred by controversy. Given this, we wish to re-evaluate the place of transgender within feminism and the potential value of its exploration to students and instructors alike.

162. Re-Joining Theory and Practice: Practice to Theory, Theory to Practice, Theory to Theory
Radisson, Cotillion 3

· Sue V. Rosser, Univ of Florida

- Lissa Skitol, Emory Univ
  The Experience of Massage and the Ethics of Touch in the Public Sphere

- Namita Goswami, Emory Univ
  Trial by Fire: A Post Colonial Feminist Touch on Deepa Mehta’s “Fire”

Western patriarchal culture assumes the primacy of discourse. The overemphasis on discourse occludes other modes of communication in social relationships. This panel treats the role of touch in establishing communities.

175. Community, Solidarity, Difference: The Epistemology and Politics of Lesbian Space
Radisson, Grand Ballroom 6

- Kim Hall, Appalachian State Univ
  Can any Woman be a Lesbian? Questions of Identity and Practice in Feminist Contexts

- Cressida Heyes, Michigan State Univ
  Sexual Identity / Feminist Practice: Between Who We Are and What We Do

- Mary Gebhart, Michigan State Univ
  Bi-ing Space: Extending the Boundaries of Lesbian Communities

Panelists explore lesbian feminist skepticism about bisexuality, asking what ethico-political demands the label “bisexual” places on feminists, and investigates the politics of diversifying “lesbian” space to include bisexual women.

176. New Directions in Feminist Activism
Holiday Inn, Grand Ballroom 4

- Deb Hoskins, Univ of Wisconsin, Moderator

- Johanna Brenner, Portland State Univ
  Women’s Citizenship and Welfare Reform: Activist Notes
  Based on personal participation in a grass-roots welfare rights organization the author explores how working-class women activists have crafted and worked for alternative visions of welfare reform.

- Gwyn Kirk, Antioch College
  Gender, Race, Class, and Nation: A Framework for Activist Scholarship
  The authors discuss a project (the East Asia/ U.S. Women’s Network Against U.S. Militarism) to show the usefulness of an analytical framework that integrates gender, race, class and nation. Also considered are validity, importance, and the rewards of activist scholarship.

- Eveline Lang, Shippensburg Univ
  Merging the Private and Public Identities: Living an Ecofeminist Orientation
  The author explores how an ecofeminist orientation can be incorporated into an approach to teaching women’s studies courses to serve as a model for students and to develop an awareness of the interconnections between all forms of oppression.

177. How to Raise Funds, Make Friends, and Spread the News About Women’s Studies
Radisson, Atrium 1

- Dorothy Miller, Wichita State Univ
- Sandy Rupp, Wichita State Univ
- Valda Lewis, Wichita State Univ
- Marti Farha Ammar, Wichita, KS

178. Teaching Women's Studies: Diverse Techniques
Summer Suites, Bosque

- Pat Gilmartin, Youngstown, OH, Moderator
- Star Olderman, Univ of Wisconsin, Whitewater

Technology and Survival: Why We Owe it to Women's Studies to Use Technology to Teach

In developing a system-wide Women's Studies major, a collaborative group learns that women's studies programs must keep up with the newest teaching technologies, and even become leaders in technological change.

- Cheyenne Bonnell, Northwest College
  Virginia Woolf Lives: Making "A Room of One's Own" Relevant to Students Today

  A staple of Women's Studies courses, A Room of One's Own is beloved by teachers but leaves many students bewildered rather than bedazzled. This paper presents class projects that make Woolf's text relevant to students today.

- Beverly King, South Dakota State Univ
- April Brooks, South Dakota State Univ

Preferences for and Benefits from Various Instructional Methods Among Male and Female College Students: Do Women and Men Want or Need Different Types of Instruction in the Classroom?

  How do women learn best? How do they prefer to learn? The authors report on research conducted to provide some answers to these questions utilizing both qualitative and quantitative methods.

179. Teaching Diversity-Based Pedagogy Across Disciplines
Holiday Inn, Atrium 2

- Beverly Stitt, Southern Illinois Univ
- Dollean York-Anderson, Southern Illinois Univ

The college culture remains static though students are diverse. The authors provide a model for introducing the dimensions of gender, race, and culture to university teaching assistants across disciplines as part of a university-wide training program.

180. From Girls to Women: Computing From K-12 to Higher Ed
Summer Suites, Adobe

- Mary Conley Kirk, Univ of Washington, Bothell
  Praxis Makes Perfect: Practicing Interdisciplinarity in an Undergraduate Computer Science Program

- Cindy Cone, The Union Institute
  Girls and Computers: Strengthening Story and Voice in Single-Gender Settings

- Sue Strickler, Eastern New Mexico Univ
  Political Science: The Role of Government and the Forces of Democracy

- Carlos Moreno, Eastern New Mexico Univ
  Journalism: The Role of Media in Voicing Hate Speech and in Answering Back
  Hate, hostile, and assaultive speech. Women and women's studies programs are often target of such speech. Panelists present three viewpoints on this topic from an ethical/legal, media, and political perspective.

185. Science Potpourri
Holiday Inn, Atrium 3

- Patricia Huckle, San Diego State Univ, Moderator

- Julian Paul Keenan, Harvard Medical School
  Challenging Evolutionary Theory and Quantitative Truths
  Evolutionary theory proposes sexually dimorphic behavioral and psychological differences based on selection processes. Challenges from feminist theories have impacted the scientific and quantitative conclusions of such research. The author details this influence on one such line of research.

- Colette Morrow, Purdue Univ, Calumet

- Barbara Mania-Parnell, Purdue Univ, Calumet

- Susan Scachitti, Purdue Univ, Calumet
  Myths of Autonomy: The Rhetoric of Women Successful in Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics
  Successful women in science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM) often use a rhetoric that mythologizes the role of individual agency in their achievements. This presentation examines the implications that the beliefs sustaining this rhetoric have for Women’s Studies program development in STEM.
186. Native American Women: Images and Realities, Art and Experience
Radisson, Cavalier

- Berenice Carroll, Purdue Univ, Chair
- Selene G. Phillips, Purdue Univ, Lac du Flambeau Band of Lake Superior Chippewa (Ojibwe)
Recreating the Past with American Indian Barbie
The author analyzes the distorted images of Native American women projected by the Native American Barbie doll.

- Angela Jaime, Purdue Univ, Pitt River and Valley Maidu
The Lived Experience of Native American Women Pursuing Ph.D.’s
The author discusses the factors that make Native American women the lowest Ph.D.-awarded group in academia.

- Phoebe Farris, Purdue Univ, Powhata -Renape Nation
Voices of Native American Women Artists
The author shows how Native American women artists and intellectuals, along with Native American men, are in the process of developing new definitions of Native American art and redefining Native American ethnic heritages.

Radisson, Parlor 1

- Marjorie Pryse, SUNY-Albany
- Leslie Lewis, Emporia State Univ
- Allison Kimmich, Univ of Richmond
- Kathy Rudy, Duke Univ

Members of the Task Force will share with Program Administrators and other interested Women’s Studies faculty an early summary of our work describing scholarship in Women’s Studies. The final report is aimed at those who are often called upon (for purposes of tenure and promotion, etc.) to describe what constitutes faculty work in women’s studies.
Concurrent Sessions Saturdav June 19, 1999 5:15pm - 6:30pm

188. Alix Kates Shulman: An Appreciation In Honor of the Publication of “A Good Enough Daughter”
Radisson, Carlisle

Alix Kates Shulman, New York, NY, Respondent
Alix Kates Shulman's fiction and memoirs encompass history, sociology, economics, embodiment and the politics of sexuality, adoption & motherhood. Join a celebration of her work.

Susan Koppelman, Tucson, AZ, Moderator
Lisa Hogeland, Univ of Cincinnati
Asking the “Burning Questions” of the Second Wave
Burning Questions exemplifies the consciousness-raising (CR) novel of the 1970's and 'differs from' and 'holds up' better than most of the CR novels because of the explicitness of its feminist politics.

Wendy Martin, Clarmont Colleges
Feminine, Feminist, Female: Gender and Identity in the Writing of Alix Kates Shulman
Alix Kates Shulman has explored questions of female identity in a patriarchal culture, in which the personal is political. The author explores the evolution of Shulman's fiction in the context of gender and identity in 20th century American culture.

Barbara White, Univ of New Hampshire
The Reception of Alix Kates Shulman's Memoirs
The author considers the reception by the critical establishment, feminist critics, and students of Shulman's Memoirs of an Ex-Prom Queen, Drinking the Rain, and A Good Enough Daughter.

Radisson, Grand Ballroom 3

Angela Palmer, Southern Illinois Univ, Moderator
Naomi Murakawa, Yale Univ
The Politics of Looking: Unveiling Medical Discourse on Asian Eyelid Surgery
The author examines the medical discourse, historical origins, and implications of Asian and Asian American double eyelid surgery. The imperialist origins of eyelid surgery challenge traditional gender-based analyses of plastic surgery.

Melissa W. Wright, Univ of Georgia
Death by Culture: Murder, Women and the Mexican Maquiladoras
The author explores how, within the maquiladora narrative of the industry's exculpation, the Mexican woman emerges as a post-colonial subject victimized by her own culture.

K.S. Umadevi, NMKRV College for Women
Women's Studies Comes of Age: Retrospect and Prospect
With increasing focus on women's issues and concern for women's development during the last two decades, there has been a vigorous growth of research in India regarding incorporating women's studies into university curriculum. Panelists share these international issues.
Within the Colonial Gaze: Tlingit Women and the Colonization of Russian America/Alaska

Russian and American men interpreted Tlingit women through the lenses of their own cultures: as shrewd traders or as helpless prostitutes. However, within the colonial gaze, Tlingit women made choices that ensured Tlingit cultural survival.

Disaster Recovery and the Search for Permanent Housing: The Impact of Gender, Race, Age, and Class

An empirical study of long-term housing recovery after disaster with methodology based on a feminist ethic and interpreted through an intersected lens of gender, race, age, and class.

The Soul Revival of African American Women & Womanist Theory

Earthlyn Manuel, Oakland, CA

The presenter addresses the importance of how soul revival, or the return to one's essential self, among black women is crucial to the development of womanist power and will also explore the relationship of womanist and feminist language in the context of healing.

The Complexities of Multiple Positionality Within an Urban Women's Shelter: Contextualizing Issues Behind Essentialist Thought

Melinda Nagai, Arizona State Univ

The author examines the complexities of multiple positionality and how this notion colors the interactions between women of differing race/ethnic and class positions within an urban women's shelter. Conflicts between those in authority positions and the clients served will be taken into account.

Women's Studies and Equity Studies: Competitors, Comrades, or Collaborators?

Kathryn Morgan, Univ of Toronto

June Larkin, Univ of Toronto

We examine the complex relationships between Women's Studies and an interdisciplinary Equity Studies program at a large, highly diverse, public university. The presenters address: central concepts, pedagogy, institutional resistance, and political transformation.

Practicing What we Preach in Women's Studies

Susan Heald, Univ of Manitoba

Subjectivity and Solidarity: Learning About Girls and Women in "Other" Places

What are girls and women in North America taught about girls and women elsewhere? What are the consequences of this for feminist solidarity and feminist pedagogy?

Enacting Feminist Theory or Practicing What we Preach: Transformation of Learning Through Personal Writing

Beth Martin Birky, Goshen College
The author explores the application of feminist critical theory in women's studies classrooms, considering writing assignments that incorporate the personal and the critical in order to transform learning.

- Roseanne Hoefel, Alma College
  Toward a Postcolonial Pedagogy of the Confessed and Blessed
  Offering a model of my own metacognitive reckoning this paper addresses the need for self-reflective decolonizing of our minds as requisite to a feminist postcolonial pedagogy.

- Laurie Kozakiewicz, Univ at Albany
  Unfulfilled Promise: Competing Visions of Motherhood and Politics
- Rosann Santos, Univ at Albany
  Cuban Women and the Politics of Benevolence
  Focusing on culture, benevolence and politics, panelists examine why achieving the vote failed to empower women's political voice and how women used alternative strategies to gain public involvement.
201. Women as Chairs of Academic Departments and Committees: Like a Lady?
* Holiday Inn, Atrium 1
  - Marcia Stratton, Univ of Alaska, Anchorage
  - Nancy Andes, Univ of Alaska, Anchorage
  - Rosellen Rosich, Univ of Alaska, Anchorage
  - Kate Sandburg, Univ of Alaska, Anchorage
  How do women exercise leadership roles successful in academia? Presenters will offer ideas and facilitate a discussion on the hazards, amusements and rewards as serving as chair.

202. Unholy Alliance: Religion, Politics, Feminism
* Holiday Inn, Atrium 2
  - Kathy Rudy, Duke Univ
  * Gender Politics and Religion in the 2000 Presidential Election
  - Kathryn Lanier, Syracuse Univ
  * The Moral Construction of Welfare Reform
  - Judith F. Clark, Syracuse Univ
  * Gilles Deleuze: Threshold For a New Feminism or a Mystification of Masculinity?
  Panelists examine how the deployment of secularized religious constructs and moral doctrine operates in the realms of policy, party politics and political philosophy, focusing on the uses and abuses of feminist tenets that serve to promote the incursion of religion into the political arena.

203. Problems and Possibilities of Extending Women's Studies into the Sciences
* Holiday Inn, Atrium 3
  - Laura Severin, North Carolina State Univ
  - Mary Barbercheck, North Carolina State Univ
  - Mary Wyer, North Carolina State Univ
  Panelists examine women's studies from programmatic, political, and individual perspectives, concentrating on the problems and possibilities associated with this work. The panel documents four years of building bridges between women's studies programs and the sciences, a process that culminated in a two-year NSF curriculum transformation project.

204. Philosophies of the Body: Emancipatory Refractions
* Summer Suites, Corrales
  - Jocelynn Jurkovich, Temple Terrace, FL
  * Oppressive Ideals of Normality in Adolescence
  - Cynthia Paccacerqua,
  * Deconstructing our Bodies: Derrida and Boal
  - Susan Stocker, Tacoma Park, MD
  * Relating the Philosophical Problem of Embodiment to the Problematic Embodiment of the Disabled
  Panelists examine three perspectives on embodiment: having an abnormal body during adolescence, how multiple embodied expressions are emancipatory, and how schemes of embodiment help us deal with disability.

205. Women Working with Women: Can We Really “Lift as we Climb”?
* Radisson, Grand Ballroom 4
  - Candace Rosovsky, Middle Tennessee State Univ
  - Linda Manning, Vanderbilt Univ
  - Isabel Mapp-Sampson, Univ of Pennsylvania
  Our goal in presenting this experiential and interactive workshop is to help women become allies by exploring the challenges we experience in the face of differences and how women working with women can support, enhance, and empower rather than isolate or negate other women professionally.
Concurrent Sessions  Sunday, June 20, 1999  8:00am - 9:15am

Sunday 8:00 - 9:15 AM. Concurrent Sessions

206. Conversations About Feminist Mentoring
* Sumner Suites, Adobe

- Margaret T. Evans, SUNY Empire State College
- Mary S. Duffy, Middlebury College
- Linda Nathan Marks, New York, NY

How do we use mentoring in our work? What happens when mentoring is institutionalized in academic or community-based settings—what works? What doesn't? How can feminist mentoring create change?

207. Past Imperfect, Future Tense: Viewing Post-Colonial Discourses of Science and Development Through a Feminist Looking Glass
* Radisson, Cavalier

- Berenice Carroll, Purdue Univ, Chair
- Kum-Kum Bhavnani, Univ of California, Discussant
- Stefanie Rixecker, Lincoln Univ, Canterbury, New Zealand

- Priya Kurian, The Univ of Waikato, Hamilton, New Zealand

Post-Imperial Disasters: The Wrath of Nature or the Curse of Militaristic Machismo

Panelists examine futuristic, revivalistic, and mediatized discourses on science, technology, and development from the perspectives of feminist and post-colonial theories. They seek to re-envision ways in which science can work in post-colonial contexts that are anti-racist and anti-sexist.

208. Film and Literature Look at Women's Complex Relationships to Their Culture
* Sumner Suites, Bosque

- Sally Jacobsen, Northern Kentucky Univ, Moderator

- Larysa Mykyta, North Carolina State Univ

Uneasy Alliances: Feminism and Caribbean Colonial Realities in Maryse Conde's "I, Tituba, Black Witch of Salem"

An examination of the dynamics of gender relations and female friendship in Maryse Conde's I, Tituba, Black Witch of Salem reveals the significance and consequences of the ambivalence towards feminism present in that 'postcolonial' novel.

- Maria Pramaggiore, North Carolina State Univ

Bursting with Contradictions: Pregnancy, Postcoloniality, and Cultural Reproduction in Contemporary Irish Cinema

The author examines representations of problem pregnancy in several recent Irish films, including The Napper, December Bride and Hush-A-Bye Baby and argues that both postcolonial theory and feminist theory must be used to analyze these films.

209. Feminism and Religion
* Radisson, Cotillion 1

- Yudit K. Greenberg, Rollins College, Moderator

- Lorine M. Getz, Univ of North Carolina, Charlotte

The Impact of Lesbian Praxis and Theory on Religious Ethics

The author seeks to examine some of the ways in which lesbian praxis, often followed by the development of related lesbian theory, is impacting the ethical methods, standards and the moral codes of some mainline religious groups and traditions.

- Ayse Agis, Univ of Oregon

(Post)modern Islam and Feminism

An analysis of the feminist strand within the recent neo-Islamist movement in Turkey and its relationship both to the officially secularist, "state" feminism and to progressive/leftist feminist groupings.

- Donna S. Turney, Randolph-Macon College

No Way Out: Conceptualizing Feminism and Christianity
Reformulation of purely theoretical analysis of the polarization between feminism and Christianity by substituting identity dissonance for cognitive dissonance. How does the personal/spiritual get conceptualized in this opposition?

215. Moving Between Two Worlds: Women's Spirituality and Women's Studies--Radical Rhythmic Reflections by Two Movers
Radisson, Grand Ballroom 6

- Louise M. Pare, Oakland, CA
- Miri Hunter Haruach, Berkeley, CA

The presenters explore ways in which women's movement practices generate new knowledge about woman's body-knowing as a credible source of consciousness different from and complimentary to other ways of knowing.

216. Building Classroom-Community Connections with Theory-Practice Pedagogy
Holiday Inn, Atrium 1

- Allison Kimmich, Univ of Richmond
  The Women Involved in Living and Learning Program: Moving Education Beyond the Classroom

- Elizabeth S.D. Engelhardt, Emory Univ
  Dirty Hands in the Women's Studies Classroom: Growing Connections Between Theory and Practice

- Bobbi Patterson, Emory Univ
  Creating Civic Spaces: Women's Ways of Knowing and Doing

Panelists examine theory-practice pedagogy in a variety of contexts and discuss its implications for students, communities, feminist theory, and definitions of citizenship. They also explain the theoretical rationale behind service learning as well as describe specific courses, assignments, and strategies for integrating theory-practice pedagogy into a range of different classes.

217. Aerobics for the Mind: Exercises for the Introductory Women's Studies Classroom
Radisson, Grand Ballroom 3

- Dian Ulner, Comm. College of Vermont
- John Kellermeyer, SUNY-Plattsburgh

In this participatory workshop presenters demonstrate a variety of exercises developed for the introductory women's studies classroom. These exercises are designed to get students involved and thinking about such issues as oppression, racism, classism, homophobia, sexuality, and spirituality. Participants will be provided with a packet of handouts for the exercises discussed.

218. Women's Place on the Internet
Summer Suites, Corrales

- Jacquelyn Marie, Univ of California, Santa Cruz
- Seline S. Quiroga, Univ of California, Davis
- Joan Korenman, Univ of Maryland, Baltimore County
- Sandra D. Shattuck, Univ of Arizona

- Kathleen Hennings, Univ of Northern Iowa
- Joellen Zmolek, Cedar Falls, IA
- Jim Campbell, Univ of Northern Iowa
- Jo Ryan, Univ of Northern Iowa
- Siqin Yang, Univ of Northern Iowa

Memory Work is a technique for examining narrative language use in the construction of social identities and oppressions, developed by German feminist scholar, Frigga Haug. The facilitators of this session are among the first in the U.S. to investigate and apply the technique. In this workshop participants will learn the "hands-on" technique for examining the structure of a woman's narrative account of a memory tied to gender and sex.

220. The Transgressive Subtexts of Disability and Feminity: Re/presentations of Women With Disabilities in Literature, Film and Media
Radisson, Parlor 2

Bodies of Literature: Reading the Transgressive Figures of Sula

- Beez Schell, Texas Woman's Univ

Media Images of Elite Female Athletes with Disabilities: The 1996 Paralympic Games

Panelists explore themes that are central to women's studies and to disability studies: representations, constructions, and re-imaginings of bodies as marked by gender, race, sexuality, and disability.

221. Framing and Reframing Feminist Histories
Holiday Inn, Atrium 2

- Bonnie J. Dow, Univ of Georgia
  Framing Feminism: Women's Liberation in the News

- Lisa Udel, Univ of Cincinnati
  Divergent Histories of Gender: Native and White Women's Feminism(s)

- Lisa Maria Hogeland, Univ of Cincinnati
  Feminism, Sex Scandals, and Historical Lessons

Panelists present three readings of histories of feminism: the 1970's women's strike for equity; a comparison of the Beecher-Tilton Scandal of the 1870's to the Clinton-Lewinsky sex scandal of the 1990's; and Native American women's feminism.

222. CANCELLED

223. Engineering and Math: Still Contested Terrain for Women
Holiday Inn, Atrium 3

- Sylvia M. DeSantis, Virginia Polytechnic Institute
  That Chick's Got Bite: The Logics and Logistics of Orienting Freshman Engineers to a Feminist Composition

The author explores the difficulties in teaching a freshman composition class to students who are primarily concerned with the realities and applications of rational, quantifiable thought, specifically first-year engineering students. The nuances of feminist thought often become glaring challenges to such young, white, male students.

- Karen L. Tonso, Univ of Colorado, Boulder
  "Are You Guys Plotting Something Dastardly"? Women's Participation in Engineering Education

The author describes women's attempts to reshape an engineering campus culture. Rather than being seen as legitimate community members, they were often recast as "guys plotting something dastardly".

Feminism and (Post)-Colonialism

Berenice Carroll, Chair

Inderpal Grewel
Caren Kaplan
Postcolonial Feminist Scholarship: Theorizing Gender in a Transnational World

Inderpal Grewel is Professor and Chair of the Women's Studies Department at San Francisco State University and the author of Home and Harem: Nation, Gender, Empire, and the Cultures of Travel (Duke, 1996). Caren Kaplan is Associate Professor of Women's Studies at the University of California at Berkeley and the author of Questions of Travel: Postmodern Discourses of Displacement (Duke 1996). Working together over the last decade, they have edited Scattered Hegemonies: Postmodernity and Transnational Feminist Practices (Minnesota, 1994) and authored several essays. Their forthcoming collaborative work includes a textbook for McGraw-Hill, Introduction to Women's Studies: Gender in a Transnational World, an essay on the geopolitics of interdisciplinarity, and a new book project on the colonial and transnational politics of sexual surgeries.

Winona LaDuke
Colonialism, Feminism, and Indigenous Women

Winona LaDuke is Program Director for the Environmental Program, Seventh Generation Fund, a national Native Foundation supporting grassroots Native initiatives in environmental justice and community restoration. She is also Campaign Director for the White Earth Land Recovery Project in Minnesota, coordinating development of an overall land acquisition, negotiation, and consolidation program for the White Earth Band of Anishinabeg of the White Earth Reservation. Her publications include Last Standing Woman, a work of fiction, and Voices From the Front: Native Environmentalism. She has also published extensively on issues of Native economic development, environmental issues, and legal issues related to Native affairs. She has lectured widely, taught classes at University of Oregon and Schumacher College in England, given expert testimony at the United Nations and other international organizations, and received numerous awards and fellowships. In 1996, she ran as the Vice Presidential candidate for the Green Party.

Sylvia Rodriguez
Tourism, Whiteness, and the Vanishing Anglo

Sylvia Rodriguez is Associate Professor of Anthropology at University of New Mexico. Prior to coming to UNM, she taught at Carleton College and UCLA. Her ethnographic research focuses on inter-ethnic relations in the U.S.-Mexico Borderlands, with emphasis on the Upper Rio Grande Valley, New Mexico. Her publications deal with Mexican/Hispano/Nuevomexicano-Pueblo-Anglo relations in the twentieth century, such as the impact of tourism on ethnic identity, representations of ethnicity, and ethnic relations, including cultural politics and ways in which art and the Enchantment Industry both shapes and reflects the ethno-racial order in New Mexico. She is also interested in land and water issues as they pertain to ethnic relations. Her current research projects include the Taos summer fiesta (a book in progress); acequia (community irrigation ditches in Northern New Mexico) custom and practice; and water rights adjudication in Taos. Her recent book, on the Matachines Dance in the Upper Rio Grande Valley, won the 1997 Chicago Folklore Prize.

To Beijing and Beyond

Pittsburgh and the United Nations
Fourth World Conference on Women
Janice Auth, editor

From college presidents and entrepreneurs, to homemakers and students, a diverse group of conference participants unite to document the United Nations Fourth World Conference on Women, and the activities of Pittsburgh/Beijing '95 and Beyond. Auth also offers insight on previous UN Women's Conferences, outlines accomplishments since 1995, and the plans for implementing the Beijing Platform for Action at the local level. This collection offers an intimate portrayal of an historical event that was under-reported by the popular media. A must-read if you want to know what really happened, and what you can do now!

"...a unique collection that succeeds in linking the global and personal, the international and local."
—Jill Bystydzienski, Dept. of Sociology, Franklin College

Praise for the first editions:

“This is an outstanding compilation, carefully edited, valuable for its encyclopedic coverage...”
—Library Journal

“...this set promises to fill a void in the women's studies literature.”
—Booklist

“...essential for all library reference collections.”
—Feminist Collections

Critically acclaimed in its first edition, Greenwood Electronic Media (GEM) has made The Women's Studies Encyclopedia even more valuable as a fully searchable CD-ROM. This is an important research tool that will meet the continuing need for a multidisciplinary reference on the collective experiences of women.

All three volumes—some 700 entries—on one fully searchable disc

Greenwood Electronic Media makes this highly acclaimed three volume set instantly accessible through full Boolean searching, proximity searching, synonym searching, and natural language queries.

Customized search templates make finding information as easy as opening a book! The online table of contents and the hypertext links throughout the database allow for quick and easy navigation through such topics as:

NO CONSTITUTIONAL RIGHT TO BE LADIES
Women and the Obligations of Citizenship
Linda K. Kerber

"A thoughtful book of formidable research and clear prose . . . Kerber weaves broad constitutional and legal history around fascinating case studies [and] makes a powerful case that on balance liberation is the trajectory of history."

Hill and Wang / Hardcover / List price $25.00 / 432 pages

THE OTHER CIVIL WAR
American Women in the Nineteenth Century
Catherine Clinton

"A timely, lively, and very useful overview of the history of American women in the nineteenth century, which provides a much-needed synthesis of the themes and problems generated by research in women's history."

—Elaine Showalter, Princeton University

Hill and Wang / Paperback / List price $13.00 / 256 pages

WALKING OUT ON THE BOYS
Frances K. Conley, M.D.

"Fiery and impassioned . . . the importance of her book lies in the larger context—the 'pattern of institutional discrimination' against women and minorities . . . She also confirms the notion other women have raised [that] only when isolated women facing sexual harassment and discrimination join together will real change occur."

—Patricia Holt, San Francisco Chronicle Book Review

NEW EDITION!

Borderlands/La Frontera by Gloria Anzaldúa

"With this second edition, Borderlands/La Frontera continues to offer a radical (re)construction of space in the Americas where political struggles and alliances are forged only after risking conflicts, appropriations, and contradictions in the face of power and domination."

—from the Introduction, Sonia Saldívar-Hull

"I have an incredible hunger to experience the world. And I can best experience the world by writing about it, thinking about it or making little drawings about it...When I start with an idea like that of Nepantla or border crossing, for example, I want to be able to unravel it for different readers—for the academic professors and students as well as for children and the average person."

—from Interview with Gloria Anzaldúa by Karin Ikas

Through the Eye of the Deer

Native American women's writings that reflect contemporary issues in an ancestral context

Edited by Carolyn Dunn and Carol Comfort

These modern stories, anchored in an archive of oral tradition (transcripts included), build on archetypal animal images but are organized to reflect new issues for contemporary Native peoples. This collection of well-known and new writers, rather than engaging in nostalgia, honors the vital link between past and present.

A cluster of articles examines activism, particularly in the academy, as well as the struggle for affirmative action and against sex discrimination in the workplace. Other articles challenge scholars to re-vision the narrative of US southern history; assess images of the feminine in Sri Lankan contemporary politics; examine the paté movement in France; report on the impact of the European Union on women; and explore bathrooms as a potent social space in the construction of gender and race in the workplace on the Pennsylvania railroad during World War II. Also includes a review essay that examines homeworkers from a global perspective; art by Joanna Kao; and poetry by Susan Thomas and Judith Strasser.

Number 2

Articles include an examination of cooking as a site of contestation and power relations for Black women; what feminists may—or may not—glean from Wittgenstein's conception and portrayals of linguistic practices; and feminist disruptions of presuppositions in western epistemology. Two articles examine issues of privacy—its history and the paradox of changing legal doctrine. Other work includes two review essays, one on The Rewards of Lesbian History, and another examining identity politics and the law in the U.S. FS also presents art by Ina Loewenberg and fiction by Julie Fay.

Number 3

A cluster of articles explores aspects of maternalism internationally including reading Little Women as an illustration of and a challenge to maternalism in Japan; transracial mothering in Great Britain; Mother Bloor's use of a rhetoric of motherhood in the US Communist Party's labor organizing; and the feminist challenge to maternal education and child health. Other articles examine abortion rights activism in post-wall Berlin and women's grassroots activism in Japan; while a commentary analyzes the institutional incentive in German social work to empower girls. Also featured—an essay on Singapore artist Georgette Chen; creative writing by Davi Wilders and A. Wassenberg; and a cluster of Filipina poetry and prose introduced by Edna Manlapaz.
