

President Biden Asks People To Get Their Kids Vaccinated

BET

President Biden is asking people to get their kids vaccinated. Check out the post that he shared on social media below.

For children, learning and socializing with their classmates and teachers makes a world of difference from having to learn from home.

Vaccinating our children will not only help us save lives, but will help us keep our schools open and keep our kids in the classroom.

— Joe Biden (@JoeBiden) November 4, 2021

Someone said: ‘Please don’t believe everything the government tells you they run the whole show do your research they claim they have our best interest but why force it on us I know the concern for your kids health but do the research first I’m hating at all just so you know.’

One other follower posted this: ‘Obviously the only good thing about school is interacting with peers. School itself is just a babysitting atmosphere. The subject matters are fairly poor compared to what should be taught. The smart ones don't go to college any more. It's all about connections/experience nowadays.'

One other follower said: 'There's a substitute shortage nationwide, feel free to apply and help change the education system to being something more than glorified babysitting in your eyes!'

A fan said: 'Need to remove the United from his title. Should be States of America government official. Since states no longer govern themselves and now the federal government is mount olympus.'

Someone else said: 'My kid got vaccinated today. Didn't hurt at all, and now we're a step closer to flying on airplanes again and seeing relatives in other states. 90% efficacy = greatly reduced risk of infection and Long Covid.'

Back in June, President Joe Biden is making a lot of people happy following the latest events. Check out the reports coming from The Shade Room in order to learn all the available details.

TSR notes that 'President Joe Biden is continuing his promise to make sure that as many Americans as possible are vaccinated against COVID-19—and his latest efforts are centered within the Black community. President Biden just announced his "Shots At The Shop" initiative, which is set to enlist 1,000 Black-owned beauty salons and barbershops across the country to administer the COVID-19 vaccine.'

According to TSR, 'CNN reports, as President Biden inches closer to his July 4th goal of having 70% of Americans fully vaccinated, he just introduced a major way to do so, courtesy of the Black community.'

Stay tuned for more news.

READ NEXT
